Bluff city manager praises sales tax

A one per cent sales tax will be the greatest thing that can happen to Sikeston, David Pence, city manager of Poplar Bluff, told city officials and about 30 residents Tuesday night.

Pence spoke at a special planning and zoning commission meeting called to discuss the possibility of adopting a sales tax in Sikeston.

City officials are searching for a way to raise more revenue to pay for needed capital improvements and additional services.

The tax would give the city an estimated $450,000 the first year of its operation. Federal revenue sharing funds are based on the city's tax effort. That means the more taxes the city gets, the more revenue sharing funds it receives.

If the city council decided to go ahead with the tax, it will be submitted to voters in the November general election. It would go into effect April 1, 1975.

Cities need a flexible tax today where everyone can share in the cost of operating the city, Pence said.

One of the best things about a sales tax, is that about 40 per cent of the people who work in the city and use its facilities, live outside the city limits, Pence said. With the sales tax they would help pay for the facilities they use.

He added that real estate taxes are not flexible enough for today's periods of rapidly- rising costs. He pointed out that for Poplar Bluff to bring in the revenue from real estate taxes that it brings in from sales tax, the real estate tax would have to be raised from $2 per $100 assessed valuation to $6 per $100 assessed valuation.

The city sales tax is collected with the state sales tax, Pence said. The state deducts two per cent for cost of collecting the tax.

Pence said the sales tax money should be used for capital improvements and not for financing day to day operations.

Poplar Bluff adopted the sales tax in 1971 after promising its residents it would use the money for capital growth, reduce the real estate tax and eliminate the tax on household goods.

The real estate tax has been reduced from $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.10. Sikeston's real estate tax is $1.50.

Since the sales tax was adopted, Poplar Bluff has added a third fire house, bought land for a fourth, and paid cash for a snorkle truck, saving about $80,000 in interest over what would have been paid on a bond issue. The city has bought two new pumpers with similar savings.

The city is expanding its parks and recreation program greatly and has a full-time park director and assistant.

The municipal library has received $50,000 over the past three years.

The city has built 10 new hangars at the airport and is expanding the runway.

Other improvements financed with sales tax include the street work and the city's industrial development.

Poplar Bluff has spent $1,300,000 for street improvements over the past three years including paving 15 miles of streets and purchasing new street equipment. The city has bought an industrial park and is contributing to an industrial development fund along with the Chamber of Commerce.

Pence said Poplar Bluff could not have had these improvements without the sales tax.

Speaking to merchants concerned with the loss of sales to other towns, Pence said it costs 15 cents a mile to operate a car and the customer would have to buy $15 worth of merchandise for each mile he drove to make up the difference.

He said customers soon forget there is a city sales tax.

"If there is such a thing as a painless tax, the sales tax is the closest thing ot it," Pence said.

Farm implement dealers in the audience expressed concern over the effect on their business.

Pence replied that there is one dealer in Poplar Bluff who is competing with three outside the city limits. The dealer has not moved outside the city, Pence said.

"That one per cent won't make that much difference," he said.

He said one office equipment dealer moved outside the city limits just after the tax went into effect, and in 30 days moved back to town.

In response to a question from the audience, Mayor Frank Ferrell said Sikeston was in good financial condition this year, except it can't afford the needed northside fire station,. and even if it was built, couldn't afford the trucks, equipment, or men to use it. He said the city needs to be doing more street work, but can't afford it, and there is not enough money for the park system.

Ferrell said inflation will make the city's problems worse next year.

Assistant City Manager Bill Whitlock said if residents want more and better services and benefits from the city, they will have to find a way to pay for them.

Whitlock said on a previous occasion that unless the city found a new source of revenue, city services would begin to deteriorate within a year.

Other sources of revenue were discussed, but none of them would raise the needed money.

The merchants showed interest in a cigarette and liquor tax, which Poplar Bluff also has, but it will not raise enough money. As one man said, "People just don't drink and smoke enough."

Pence said 110 cities have sales taxes and most of the cities in the state will have them in the next few years.

Ferrell said he has talked with the mayors of other cities in the area and he said he was told they are waiting for Sikeston to adopt sales tax before they bring the proposal to their residents.

In other action, the commission voted to recommend to the council that the area between Kiwanis and Lions streets from Lee Street to the middle of the block between Jackson and Adams streets be rezoned from "A" single family to "B" two family. The action will allow mobile homes to be placed on permanent foundations in the area.

The commission voted to recommend granting the request from the Drury Inn and Ramada Inn for road signs on Highway 60 across the highway from Keystone Drive.

The commission tabled a request from Dick McDougal, 1040 N. Kingshighway, that the strip of road in front of his house and the island in front of Bloemer's Grocery, be taken over and maintained by the city. As of now, he said, no one claims the street or the island.

Buford Pusser killed today in auto crash

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Buford H. Pusser, 36, the former sheriff of McNairy County whose brushes with violence and death were made into the motion picture "Walking Tall," was killed early today in an automobile accident, authorities said.

Highway Patrol Trooper Paul Ervin said Pusser was killed when his 1974 Corvette ran off U.S. Highway 64 near his home town of Adamsville, Tenn., and struck an embankment. Ervin said Pusser was thrown from the vehicle and apparently was killed instantly.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said there was no evidence of foul play.

The accident occurred hours after Pusser had told a news conference in Memphis that he would play himself in a sequel to "Walking Tall." Filming for the sequel, which was to have been called "Buford," had been scheduled to start Sept. 20 near Jackson, Tenn.

Because of his attempts to clean up McNairy County,

the 6-foot-6, 250-pound Pusser was the target of killers seven times during his six-year tenure as sheriff, which ended four years ago. He was wounded several times and his wife was killed in an ambush assassination attempt on his life.

Ervin said Pusser had attended a fair at Selmer, Tenn., and was returning home at the time of the accident at 12:55 a.m.

He said Pusser's daughter, one of his three children, was following Pusser in a second car filled with young people and witnessed the accident.

"There was no apparent reason for the accident that I could find," Ervin said. "I don't know if there was a tire blowout or not. I couldn't tell from the burned car. There was no evidence of foul play as far as I could determine."

Pusser, among the youngest sheriffs in Tennessee history when first elected at 26 after serving in the Marines and working as a professional wrestler, said plans for the new film called for it to pickup where "Walking Tall" left off — just after the Aug. 12, 1967, ambush of a patrol car in which he and his wife, Pauline, were riding. Mrs. Pusser was killed in the barrage of automatic rifle fire and Pusser's jaw was shot away.

Mississippi authorities seek Butler extradition

JACKSON, Miss. — Mississippi authorities reportedly have instituted extradition proceedings for the return of Dwight Butler, who was patroled from the Mississippi State Penitentiary Aug. 16, 1973, according to J. A. Chamblee of the state probation and parole office in Jackson.

Butler's parole was revoked March 8, 1974, after he was arrested in Stoddard County Mo. and charged with burglary and stealing.

Chamblee said the necessary papers have been filed by the Mississippi probation and parole office with B. C. Ruth, the classification officer at the state penitentiary.

A spokeswoman for Missouri Governor Christopher "Kit" Bond said that the governor had not received the papers as of Aug. 20.

Butler has charges pending against him in three Missouri counties. Woodrow A. Cross, a parole analyst for the Missouri probation and parole board, said as a general rule the state having a prisoner in custody disposes of its charges aginst him first, before returning him to another state.

Butler is presently in the Pemiscot County Jail at Caruthersville, Mo., awaiting a hearing on a fraud charge, stemming from a July 17 incident in which Butler allegedly cashed a check written on the Idle Hour Inn, signed by Butler and made out to himself. He reportedly had two other checks in his possession, allegedly belonging to the Inn.

Parma alderman quits; cites unfair practices

PARMA — Ward One Alderman John Deason, resigned in a letter to the mayor, board of aldermen and citizens of Parma Tuesday, saying he believed he was being forced to resign.

The six- paragraph, memographed letter, dated Aug. 20, and signed by Deason claimed that he did not feel he could be a party to the "unfair practices that exist in the city," but did not elaborate on his subject.

"I have endeavored to become a part of the city, to work hard for the good of the people and for the people, yet, I find that my work has been rejected by a small minority, but that these have a ruling effect on my work and ambitions, therefore, I refuse to submit to the minority," Deason

2 Sikeston firemen hurt

A fireman was injured early today when he lost his footing and fell from the cab of a fire truck while preparing to respond to a call to a house fire at the corner of West North and Alabama streets.

Dennis Sloan, 27, of 836 Ruth St. lost his footing and fell at 2:25 a.m. as he stepped up into the cab of the fire truck. His back struck the running board on the side of the truck.

Although, in considerable pain, Sloan drove the truck to the fire, but was unable to operate the hose or truck after arriving at the fire scene.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he was admitted and underwent tests this morning.

By late morning, a nurse said his condition had improved and the pain was not as severe as it had been earlier.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer was the only other fireman on the scene until the volunteers began arriving a few minutes later. Linnemeyer tried to operate both the hose and the truck at the same time, jobs normally performed by two men.

Only one man responds on each city fire truck, and he has to wait for Linnemeyer or volunteers to arrive before firefighting operations begin.

A second fireman, David Shain, 318 Missouri St., received first- degree burns around the waist at 4 a.m. when a coffee pot overturned in the firehouse, pouring scalding water over his mid-section. The firemen were making coffee after returning from the fire. He also was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Flames rekindled in the old frame house this morning and firemen let the place burn to the ground.

Linnemeyer said the cause of the fire was not known.

The old house was owned by Dan Bean, 227 Alabama St., who used it for storage.

SPENDING YOUR MONEY

A friend of ours in Washington noticed, in passing, that the Congressional Record of July 22, 1974, reports, among others, the following actions by members of the U. S. Senate:

. They voted to increase from $4 million to $10 million funds for mutual and self- help housing:

. Voted to increase from 10 per cent to 15 per cent the amount of funds that may be used for the administration of special supplemental food programs for women, infants, and children;

. Voted an additional $8 million for rural development grants;

. Voted to distribute additional funds to foreign countries for humanitarian purposes.

And so it goes, day after day, with Congress appropriating more funds, additional amounts, increased appropriations for a thousand and one "worthy causes," all of them with vigorous and sincere supporters and seldom meeting with organized opposition. The result? The money extracted from your income and your earnings increases more and more; or, the money spent by the government over and above that collected in taxes also increases — which means that you as the taxpayer are not only obligated to pay back the borrowed money but you are, in the meantime, charged with the interest on the loan.

One of the measures under active consideration by the Congress at this moment is the formation of a brand new government bureau to be known as the "Consumer Protection Agency," which will call for the appropriation of additional millions upon millions to "protect" you from shrewd and wily Capitalists who are always sneaking around corners, looking for ways to take your money away from you by selling you goods and products you really don't need. And, unless a howl of indignation and protest is heard from the hinterlands, the bill will quite likely pass.

It seems to us that rather than a "consumer" protection agency, what we really need is a "taxpayer" protection agency to protect us from Members of Congress who don't mind how much they spend (of other people's money) for causes in which they believe.

And, incidentally, if you don't want to be hit with the huge bill you will have to pay to support the Consumer Protection Act, it would be wise to let your Representatives in Congress know — and now!

TIME TO CURB CHILD ABUSE

Reports in the news of incredible incidents of child abuse are on the increase. Seldom does a day pass that we are not brought face to face with media reports of inhuman behavior on the behalf of parents or those in whose care children have been placed. It has become a national disgrace.

Not only does it appear that individual, family- style child abuse is on the increase, but that institutionalized children have also shared in mistreatment. In one recent investigation (in the State of Virginia), it was reported that day care facilities for children of welfare recipients failed to meet even minimum requirements for safety, sanitation, health and education.

In another instance, it was reported that emotionally disturbed children of military personnel had been receiving "treatment" that included beatings, solitary confinement for long periods, and "symbolic" buryings in shallow graves.

Shockingly, the Defense Department had been footing the bill for such "treatment" in institutions located in Michigan and Florida, under the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services.

Some satisfaction can be felt from the fact that these abuses to our children are now being brought to light. It may be that rather than an actual increase in child abuse, we are learning from improved and increased methods of investigation and reporting. In any event, now that we know, it should arouse the conscience of all of us to support every effort to wipe out this evil completely. Toward this end, the U. S. Senate Permanent Investigation Subcommittee is beginning to conduct hearings on what Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington has termed "horrible and outrageous abuses of children."

It behooves us to see that State and local laws be strengthened, that vigilance be maintained in every neighborhood, and that severe penalties be instituted for those guilty of child abuse. Failing such local and State vigilance, then we will almost certainly see, as has already been proposed, national standards, enforcement and control of all those responsible for the care of children in public institutions.

BOND'S LIBERALS

The wide - open illegal sale of drugs on state property at the Sedalia acid rock festival recently was just one more manifestation of the liberal air of permissiveness that pervades the administration of Gov. Christopher S. (Kit) Bond.

Law enforcement personnel were ordered to ignore open violations of laws on state property. More than 1,000 persons were treated for drug overdoses at the "festival." One young man died and several others were near death. There were rapes, robberies and assaults. Thugs high on dope wandered around with knives and other weapons. Many carried signs advertising the illegal drugs they had for sale.

Bond claimed his administrators didn't know what they were getting into when they leased the state fairgrounds to promotors of the festival. It is significant that one of the festival promoters is a partner in the advertising firm with the state contract to promote the upcoming state fair.

We assume Bond and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth were aware that the July event had been advertised nationwide as a drug oriented rock festival "on the grass with no hassles, and that's guaranteed." But neither Bond nor Danforth made any attempt to seek a court order blocking the drug festival.

Although Bond has made some fine appointments in his administration, he nevertheless has sought liberals for key positions, such as the Department of Corrections and the Division of Welfare.

Bond condones the hiring of convicted killers as prison guards. One convicted murderer serving a life term was paroled, and then hired as a guard. He is accused of murdering a Bonne Terre woman Friday. The inmate turned guard was flushed from his residence on Capitol Avenue by tear gas Saturday night by law enforcement officers.

Even on the national level Bond seeks to become part of the liberal establishment that almost has destroyed this nation during the last 40 years.

Bond is identified with the minority liberal faction in the Republican Party. Bond evidently believes his faction will gain control if the rules are changed to favor his side, just as McGovern captured control of the Democratic Party in 1972.

Nearly everyone now acknowledges that the McGovernite rule changes in the Democratic Party were a disaster.

One would think the Republican Party would want to avoid a similar mess. But the GOP, at the urging of Bond, has given tentative approval to an "affirmative action" program requiring the party to pay the expenses of minority group persons and others to the Republican National Convention. Although Bond denies it, the proposal has been described by at least one nationally syndicated columnist as resembling the McGovern system. Bond contends he is merely trying to broaden the base of the Republican party.

As Bond put it: "We are writing the rules of the game which the state parties must observe if they want to play."

Rather than admit his administration made a major mistake in permitting the Sedalia acid rock festival, Bond tells Missouri citizens that it was not necessary to try to stop the event before it started. He says the massive violation of laws on state property had to be permitted or there might have been a riot if anyone was arrested.

Rather than admit that the prison system is torn apart by permissiveness, Bond tells Missourians the prison system is better than ever.

Rather than admit that the welfare department is a mess, Bond sweeps the situation under the rug.

Rather than admit that the McGovern delegate selection system was a disaster, Bond presses for a system designed to increase liberal strength in the Republican Party.

We hope Bond will open his eyes to what is going on in his administration and correct the situation before further damage is done.

Some forty years ago, in a debate which rocked the nation at the time, the late Senator Norris pushed through his great dream of harnessing the waterways of the Tennessee Valley to produce plentiful and cheap power for the then economically deprived South. This legislation resulted in the Tennessee Valley Authority, or TVA.

But in the restless 20th Century push of American economic life four decades is almost akin to another century, and today the State of Tennessee is faced with a problem. The growth of the area, plus the more intensive use of energy in modern industry and business far outstripped the force of the waterfalls with the result that today only six per cent of the electricity in Tennessee can be derived from hydroelectric sources, with largely coal, and some gas, relied upon to keep generators spinning.

Coal and gas, as is well known, is constantly increasing in cost, resulting in higher and higher energy prices. Tennesseans are most conscious of this problem, as they well should be. For not only did TVA attract many big operations, it also developed a very comprehensive small and independent business complex.

In fact, the data of the National Federation of Independent Business indicates that although Tennessee has less than two per cent of the nation's population, it is home to 17 per cent of the nation's independent enterprises.

While there is every expectation that American ingenuity in time will find new sources of power compatible with environmental preservation, this takes time, and in the meantime business, which means in its final analysis jobs for Tennessee people, must be maintained despite soaring energy costs for a period of perhaps five years or more.

The Tennessee state government, headed by outgoing Governor Winfield Dunn started over a year ago probing into means of coping with the increasing costs of energy, headed by an internationally known expert, Carroll Kroeger, Sr.

The University of Tennessee, with a task force headed by Dr. W. T. Snyder, head of the department of engineering science and mechanics found that 70 per cent of all energy is used by industry and commerce and arrived at the conclusion that 50 per cent is not fully utilized. Working with the bigger enterprises, they found means of reducing energy costs in amounts ranging from 10 to 30 per cent by more efficient utilization and recycling of energy.

Now there is being prepared a simple, easy to follow manual to permit smaller enterprises ranging from the corner drug store up to large processors and manufacturers to make these same savings in costs without reducing activity or production. This is being done with the realization that while big industry can afford the technicians needed to more efficiently use energy, the smaller enterprises need a "do it yourself" guide.

On September fifth in Nashville, the Governor, with the cooperation of the National Federation of Independent Business is holding a one day conference to explain this new program to help small and independent business. The interest in this project at the Federal level is attracting attendance and participation by Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent, and other Federal officials.

In this era, when government often seeks to solve a problem by massive grants of money, or by confusing directives, it is refreshing to note that Tennessee has used its own state institutions to develop the means by which all business people can solve voluntary the problem of keeping their energy costs in line while maintaining full production.

EMPLOY THE HANDICAPPED

Too few people, including many employers, simply are not aware of the roadblocks in transportation, housing, education and employment that the handicapped person faces. And unless they have worked with handicapped men and women they do not realize what excellent employees they make.

Some major corporations — like General Electric, DuPont, IBM, Hughes Aircraft, AT&T and Sears Roebuck, have become convinced that a disability is not detrimental to good work. More than 5½ million handicapped people are working in the United States — but 6 million remain unemployed.

Work is the ultimate test of a person's productiveness. Don't handicap the handicapped by blindly refusing to give them a chance. A chance is all they ask!

The White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention (SAODAP) has released its "Federal Guidelines for Drug Abuse Materials," to govern the production and distribution of all films, pamphlets and other materials on drug education. The guidelines grew out of a universally - perceived need to upgrade the scientific accuracy and conceptual quality of such mass media materials.

Federally funded efforts must now conform to a series of general "message guidelines" for drug abuse programs.

Although applauded as the first effort at quality control in this field by the federal government, the guidelines have come under increasing attack from the private sector. In a recent issue of National Drug Reporter an extended "Editorial Comment" concluded that "...the guidelines are significant not for what they contain, but rather for what they leave out."

The guidelines do not guide; they do not enable individuals to make intelligent choices with a thorough understanding of the philosophical rational inherent in "good" or "bad" designations.

National Drug Reporter suggests ways to buildup the beginnings provided by the federal guidelines. A "Consumers Union" evaluation approach for drug abuse materials could be created and maintained; the sophisticated research technqiues already used in many commercial fields could be adapted to aid in to getting materials to specific audiences.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF THE LAW

A person should always be reasonably certain of where they are geographically even if in doubt spirtually or hazed up as to the city you're in — a penalty of jet transportation. Here are some laws to watch out for:

If you're in Omaha you can be fined 25 cents to $1 for each time you swear. Save your temper until you get to Council Bluffs at least.

Now in Minneapolis you can't go around impersonating Santa Claus on city streets. Of course you know you can't impersonate an FBI agent, a judge, or even a person on welfare. Now Santa Claus has been added to the list. If you happen to be a genuine Santa Claus that's different. Play it safe - just don't impersonate anyone in Minneapolis.

Now the women's lib are sure to descend on you like a ton of brick if you punch a woman in the ribs in Iowa although it is perfectly legal. An Iowa law states that women are not allowed to wear corsets and men were appointed corset inspectors and it is their duty to punch a woman in the ribs to see if she is violating the law by wearing a corset. This law is a little old but nevertheless could get a feller in the pokey for poking.

If you happen to be in Cedar Rapids and you feel the urge to kiss, first make sure you kiss only an acquaintance because it is positively against the law to kiss a stranger. This offers an interesting prognostication that might be better settled at the seat of justice, namely just at what point in a kiss does a stranger become an acquaintance. Should it be that one becomes neighborly just before the physical act, then when the act had been completed you would know each other better, it is possible that the court would rule that one had not, after all, kissed a stranger, but rather had developed a rapid friendship.

Omaha also has another law, it forbids the use of the same finger bowl by two people at the same table. If you're going to practice this vice you'd better get two tables.

And finally in the town of Ola, South Dakota (look it up on your own map or write the postoffice) it is illegal to stop to rest in the middle of the road. We hope we are not picking at straws but presumably if you were a little off center you'd escape the punishment, or perhaps if you did stop in the middle of the road for a purpose other than rest it would be seen in a different light by the authorities but the way we see it, if you stop on any kind of a road we know anything about they can pick up your remains at the office of the coroner.

'VETO-PROOF CONGRESS' IDEA LAGS

Union members are good, patriotic citizens just as are non- union workers. Both agree that a worker should have the privilege of joining a union -- or deciding which competing union to join -- or deciding not to be a member of any union.

It is not surprising that 78 percent of union members indicate in public opinion polls that use of union dues to elect political candidates should be prohibited. What surprises some union bosses and some politicians more responsible to the labor czars than to the rank- and- file workers is the showing that a full 60 per cent of union members favor and would vote for a right- to- work law.

It is the compulsion aspect of big unionism which is offensive to union member and non- union worker alike. There is no way to keep an elected politician -- whether in labor or government -- honest and on the right track if his opponents can be forced to pay for his election campaigns while opponents are effectively silenced.

Good union members know that they cannot have good jobs if their company is not progressive, efficient, competitive -- and profitable. Union bosses in the past have been able to drive individual companies into bankruptcy and to speed the decline of entire industries.

Workers -- union and non-union alike -- are showing less-than- enthusiastic support for some union bosses' campaign to elect a "veto- proof" Congress. President Ford is seen as a good man, a man of the people who will not use the veto lightly. The rank- and- file union member-- and the non-union worker who is in the majority by far -- both know that they need the protection of the Presidential veto from greedy persons besides spend-crazy politicians and hard-hearted company bosses. JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Pentagon Lords Shrug Off New Spirit of Frugality

WASHINGTON — Congressmen are grumbling that the message of inflation and frugality is not getting through to our admirals, generals and a few administration high- livers.

Legislators who drop by to chat with the brass hats at cocktail time, for instance, soon find that the military toasts being raised to belt-tightening are really 90- proof hogwash on the rocks.

The congressmen see GI servants mixing the drinks, polishing the silver, hustling the canapes, mowing the lawn outside and chauffeuring the Pentagon panjandrums' wives home from their shopping.

With such petty extravagance before their eyes, it is hard for the members to believe that the brass hats are being any more frugal with their multi- billion- dollar budget.

Actually, the hundreds of recruits assigned to such menial jobs are costing the taxpayers at least $5.4 million a year, even though Pentagon regulations bar the use of GIs as domestic servants for officers.

Lately, House appropriations chairman, George Mahon, D-Tex., who usually zips through military requests with the speed of a Polaris missile, has demanded to know why well- paid officers need GI servants.

In reply, former Army Secretary Robert Froehlke explained that he didn't want his Chief of Staff rushing home at five o'clock to mow the lawn. Growled Mahon:

At a recent party for 500 -- including then- Vice President Gerald Ford -- Marine Commandant Gen. Robert Cushman dragooned local leathernecks to wash dishes and serve liquor without pay. Two of them were minors, which would have gotten Cushman's license revoked if he were running a bar. "This may have occurred inadvertently," a spokesman explained lamely.

Like the other Joint Chiefs, Cushman is allotted five military servants for his personal convenience. At a GI salary of almost $8,000 plus benefits, this means each Chief can top the taxpayers for $40,000 a year for his house-cleaning and errands.

During interviews with the GI slaveys, my reporter Howie Kurtz found them serving as baby- sitters, pet walkers, cookie bakers for a general's children, boot- polishers, car waxers and bathroom floor scrubbers.

When his general wants to summon him, one Air Force steward complained, he rings a bell. "The name should be changed from aide to maid," the steward grumbled. Although they are supposed to get extra pay for serving at parties, most don't. And some brass hats loan their stewards around as if they were portable appliances.

Until last year, these GI valets, cabin boys and grocery shoppers were sent to a training school to pursue such topics as The Correct Waitress, Ice Carving Made Easy, Use of Domestic Appliances, and The Army Wife. Now they learn on the job.

In a still- confidential General Accounting Office report, 675 enlisted men were found serving in the pantries and pool rooms of the military mighty. Countless others also serve, it is believed, but have gone undetected.

The ethnic make- up of the GI servants smacks of racism. Two- thirds of the Marine servangs are black, the GAO found. And 98 per cent of the Navy's stewards are Filipinos.

The military, however, is simply following the royal example of the old Nixon White House, which seemed to have delusions that the "Mansion of the People" was really Versailles or the Imperial Palace.

A total of 91 Navy stewards were assigned to the White House, the GAO discovered, almost all Filipinos. Another 65 Navy aides were forced to chauffeur staffers. Nine military "housemaids" cleaned up the cigarette butts and empty glasses in the cabins at Camp David. Others did menial tasks for the President at San Clemente and Key Biscayne.

When Nixon flew to the California White House, for example, 15 or 20 stewards were rushed out to be at his beck and call. Vice President Spiro Agnew, before he was forced out of office, had two houseboys assigned to him.

Aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia, Navy aides served as janitors and waiters for partying staffers. During 1972, one steward told us, former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans used the yacht and its Navy crew to entertain GOP campaign contributors.

Other stewards wash dishes in the White House staff mess. Several times a week, they must also serve without pay as butlers at private parties in the homes of White House officials.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., outraged by such reports, brought the GAO in to look into White House misuse of GIs. The GAO privately informed Proxmire that they were stonewalled.

"We have been unable to obtain permission from the White House to examine the records or ... to interview the personnel assigned to the staff mess," Proxmire was told.

Nevertheless, the GAO watchdogs did find at least $1 million was being spent by the White House to pay their GI servants. Some, the GAO reported, were working 60 hours a week.

Footnote: President Gerald Ford is unafflicted with an Arabian potentate complex, and already there are signs that fewer GI servants will be at the White House. Meanwhile, despite the new Pentagon regulations, most generals and admirals are still using their orderlies as household servants.

Morley man sought as prison fugitive

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP) Four men charged as fugitives in an escape from the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., also have been charged in a North Carolina bank robbery, according to the FBI.

Edward J. Krupinsky special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office announced filing of the bank robbery charges Tuesday as the search continued for two of the fugitives.

The search was in its eighth day today in Great Dover swamp about 15 miles west of New Bern for convicted air pirate Richard Floyd McCoy Jr., 32, and Melvin Dale Walker, 35, of Morley, Mo.

McCoy grew up in the tiny community of Cove City, near where the search centered, and his mother and wife live there. His father, separated from his mother, lives in Raleigh.

The other two men, Larry LeRoy Bagley, 36, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Joseph William Havel, 60, of Philadelphia, are in custody in New Bern.

The four escaped from the Lewisburg prison Aug. 10 and have been charged in the Aug. 13 robbery of a Bank of North Carolina branch in Pollocksville, about 15 miles southeast of Cove City.

Bagley and Havel were captured after an exchange of gunfire with a Highway Patrol helicopter after it swooped low to check a car on a logging road. The other two men escaped into the swamp.

PRAYER: O Father of all, guide us out of our jails of place and circumstances into the freedom and harmony of Your kingdom. In Christ's name. Amen.

Originality feature of Woodshed items

If you're looking for originality and craftsmanship in a gift or a decoration for your home, The Woodshed, 100 Broadway Ave., offers a variety of handmade items for sale.

All of the wood items in the store, the main items sold, are made by her brother-in-law, Cart Wood of Little Rock, Ark. Other items, such as quilts and handicrafts, are made by local residents and sold on consignment.

Mrs. Rowland decided to open the store after she brought some items made by Wood to Sikeston and a number of people wanted to buy them.

She said she started selling only the wooden items, then expanded her line to include other handicrafts. Items sold include shelves, wooden initials, poutin' benches, quilts and some antique items.

Wood will make items to order, if the customer leaves instructions telling what he wants, Mrs. Rowland said.

Sales tax bulletin warns of legislative changes

The department has about 86,000 sales tax accounts.

Sales and income tax fraud now are felonies punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 and imprisonment of up to five years.

"This change in the law coupled with the increasing effectiveness of our special investigation bureau is designed to catch and punish the tax evader in the manner which he deserves," Spradling said. "These people have had a free ride for a long time, but we now have the tools to crack down."

The second major change is a new law regarding the bonding of businesses responsible for paying sales taxes.

All new businesses and all delinquent accounts as of Jan. 1, 1975, will be required to furnish a bond to the Revenue Department to secure payment of at least three months' sales tax liability.

"This change is designed to help solve our other major administration problem; that is, a high rate of deliquency," Spradling said.

"All accounts delinquent Jan. 1, 1975 and thereafter will be required to post a bond," he said. "Failure to do so will cause cancellation of the sales tax license and steps will be taken to see that the business is forced to close down.

"I therefore strongly urge that all sales tax accounts remit any delinquencies prior to January 1975. We simply will not allow them to stay in business and build up large and larger debts to the state of Missouri."

Cost of living up last month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose eight-tenths of a per cent in July despite an easing in the increase in food prices, the government said today.

The July report marked only the second time this year the monthly increase in the government's Consumer Price Index has been less than 1 per cent.

The July increase would amount to an annual rate of inflation of 9.6 per cent, still ahead of last year's 8.8 per cent inflation rate.

Prices as of July 31 were 11.8 per cent higher than in July 1973, the government said. That is the biggest 12-month jumped since the year ending September 1947, when the increase was 12.6 per cent.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said, however, workers managed to gain ground last month in their race with inflation.

Spendable earnings, after taking account for inflation, moved up by two-tenths of 1 per cent.

But since it was only the second monthly increase this year, real spendable earnings were 5.3 per cent less than a year earlier.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

For years, the Ladies Home Journal has run a series called, "Can This Marriage Be Saved?"

My husband says it sounds like they're refrigerating a leftover, but I love the civilized way in which married people get a chance to express themselves without interruption from one another. So often, one member of the couple dominates the dialogue, thus denying the other mate the chance to speak. It's so healthy in a marriage to talk it out.

As an example of how it works, I'll relate a little situation that placed our marriage in jeopardy a few years ago . . . the Alarm Clock Incident.

Erma talks first.

"Basically, I'm a light sleeper. I've had to be. Were it not for me, our babies would have floated out of the crib in the mornings. Dogs would have knocked our garbage cans over and made a mess. And the milk would have frozen into quart milk bars outside of our door.

"However, my husband and I planned a trip and he said, 'I'd better set the alarm. With our luck, you'll sack out and we'll miss the plane.'

"Being a sensible person, I agreed to this. We would set the alarm for six and still have plenty of time to make the plane.

"No sooner had my head hit the pillow than the alarm went off in my ear. I stumbled out of bed, half-crazed for sleep, went into the bathroom and began brushing my teeth. The lump in my husband's bed did not move a muscle. 'Aren't you going to get up?' I asked.

"Are you crazy? It's only 4:30," he said.

"But why did you set the alarm for 4:30?"

"I have to wake up slow," he said.

"I sunk under the covers and stared wide-eyed at the ceiling until the alarm blasted me out of my trance. He reached over, smacked the alarm and said, 'Bug off!'

"It was 5 a.m. 'Are you some kind of a nut?' I shouted. 'No,' he said, 'I just wanted to be shoved around by an alarm clock. I'll get up when I'm ready to get up.'

"The snooze alarm went off at 5:15, 5:30 and 5:45. By this time my eyes felt like two burnt holes in a mattress. At six when the alarm went off again, my husband listened to its clang until it ran down. Then he grabbed it, stuffed it in a drawer and said, 'Don't call me. I'll call you!'

"When I was sure he was awake, I told him as gently as possible that I was going to put him in a home. We began to argue. We argued until we missed our flight. But I forgave and forgot."

Bill's turn to talk.

"There are a few discrepancies in Erma's story ..."

Birthday celebrated

Vows exchanged

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Rev. William Dickey officiated at an Aug. 3 ceremony uniting Miss Carol Ann Glastetter of Kansas City, Kan., and Kenneth Alan Jones of Independence, Kan., in marriage. The ceremony was conducted at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Jones Jr. on Route One.

Miss Glastetter's parents are Mrs. Sylvia M. Glastetter of Chaffee and the late Theon Glastetter.

The bride wore a gown of cream frost sheer French knot over taffeta. The sheer sleeves and upper sheer bodice gave the gown a pinafore appearance. The pinafore lines of the bodice were edge with lace.

Her three-tiered veil was held by a headpiece of lace petals, and she carried a bouquet of natural and orange daisies accented with baby's breath. The bridal attire was fashioned by the bride.

Spaeth served as best man.

Mrs. Jones, a 1972 graduate of Southeast Missouri State University, received a bachelor of science degree in education. She is employed by the Social Security Administration in Shawnee Mission, Kan.

Jones, also a 1972 graduate of SeMo State, is employed by the Social Security Administration at Ottawa, Kan.

Miss Bell to wed

CHAFFEE — Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Bell announce the engagement of their daughter Sharon Ann to Brad Thomas Talley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Talley.

Miss Bell is a 1973 graduate of Chaffee High School and has attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. She is employed at Kennel Burg in Cape Girardeau.

Talley, a 1971 graduate of Chaffee High School, is employed by Colonial Federal Savings and Loan in Cape Girardeau. He is a student at Southeast Missouri State University.

A Sept. 28 wedding is planned.

Ann Landers

Girl wants to ditch crying boyfriend

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a 17 -year -old boy who cries every time he gets into an argument with his girl and he sees he is losing?

I'd really like to ditch this dude but whenever I mention splitting, he starts to bawl. My knees turn to rubber and my heart melts. The last time I told him I wanted to stop seeing him, he buried his face in his handkerchief, cried until it was sopping wet and then announced that the doctor had just told him he had a brain tumor and probably wouldn't live another year. I couldn't lop him off after that. Well, two days later he said the doctor had misread the X -rays and everything is O.K.

I don't want to get in any deeper with this crybaby. As it is, every guy in school thinks I'm his private property and I haven't been asked out in a year. Can you help? --Madeline

Dear Mad: Put on a raincoat and hip boots. Tell Mr. Great Lakes that you are not going out with him again and the decision is final. Let him float out of the room if necessary, and don't let him cry his way back or you'll be stuck indefinitely.

Dear Ann Landers: May a husband say a word about how it is to look at a wife in the morning, before she has had a chance to put on the extras and get glamorous?

I love my wife and have for many years. We are both 47. We decided long ago that early morning is not the best time for looking or communication. Without putting it into words we agreed that morning is the time to look at the kids instead of each other. The teen -agers are a pleasure to behold, eyes bright and hair shining. The younger ones absolutely sparkle! I eat my eggs and slurp down my coffee. My wife and I exchange a few inaudible sentences. I stumble off to work and she struggles into gear for the day.

At night when I come,home, the little woman looks mighty good to me and we get along great. Besides, looking, whether it's mornign or night, isn't the whole game --as any blind may well tell you. --From Chicago

Dear Chic: Let's hear it for the couple who has learned to live together. Sometimes the highest level of communication is no communication at all.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago you printed a letter from a night -oriented person who had a difficult time in his dorm because he enjoyed doing his school work (or his thing) late at night and arranged his schedule so he could sleep in the morning. But "crack - of -dawners" made it impossible for him to sleep. Will you please give equal time to a member of the "Daylight Forces"?

Every campus has an obnoxious group that operates after midnight. This includes smoking pot (which creates a peculiarly disgusting odor), entertaining the boy (or gir) friend overnight at the inconveience and embarrassment of their roommates, indulging in loud drinking parties with the stereo going full blast, and going out and leaving pets in a room to howl disconsolately for hours.

The worst of it is that the administration refuses to do anything about it. So please don't compound the felony by coming out in favor of a selfish group of spoiled brats who have had things their own way too long. College begins in a few weeks. Be fair. --Revenging Angel

Dear Angel: I can't believe the administration would ignore such complaints. Go -en masse --raise the roof, and you'll get results.

A no -nonsense approach on how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage --What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago Illinois 60654, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self -addressed envelope.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 34 and have had a complete hysterectomy. I was told a woman could not live without estrogen, and yet I know several women who have had the same operation who have gotten along without taking shots or pills. A couple of them were in their 20s. They said the only thing was they were thrown into the change of life early. Could you please explain the difference to me as I am confused, and I don't have a doctor anymore as our doctor left the area.

I was taking estrogen shots and pills, but I am taking nothing now. If I can live without estrogen I would rather. My doctor never said I had to take it at all in the first place. It was my mother who says I need it.

DEAR READER — First, just having a complete hysterectomy does not mean that there will be any loss of estrogen production at all. Estrogen is produced by the ovaries, and these may be left in place when a complete hysterectomy is done. And, usually they will be left in unless there is some disease of them that requires their removal. The difference between whether the ovaries were taken out or left in is one factor in the different responses women have to this type of surgery.

If the ovaries are taken out then a young woman will have a premature menopause. However, estrogen is also manufactured by the adrenal gland. Deciding whether any woman, with or without an operation, needs estrogen is dependent upon the results of a medical examination. Some women go through the menopause with no problems and never take estrogen. In others it is very useful in controlling symptoms and preventing changes.

In any case, you do not die because your body is not producing a large amount of estrogen. My advice would be to find a doctor and get a good examination to find out what you need, not what your mother needed or your girl friends needed. Only then you can know if YOU really need any additional female hormone or not. For more information write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019, and ask for the booklet on menopause. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can being overweight cause pain in the chest?

DEAR READER — Yes. It contributes to causing a hernia of part of the stomach through the normal, but enlarged, hole in the diaphragm. This is quite a common problem in our society in middle aged and older people.

The hernia causes a leak of normal acid digestive juices into the esophagus. This irritates the lower esophagus and causes a burning pain at the lower end of the breastbone. It can also cause the esophagus to go into spasm, creating pain in the middle of the chest, not unlike a heart attack.

Then obesity contributes to heart disease, which leads to chest pain. It also contributes to the problem of arthritis.

Dr. Lamb welcomes questions from his readers, but because of the volume of mail he cannot answer personally. Questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

What's the law?

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

When Bubbles married Big Mike, she discovered that marriage was a bag of surprises. The biggest surprise was Big Mike. Instead of being a ro -busty male, "he" turned out to be a no -busty female.

Charging fraud, Bubbles stormed out of the bridal suite and demanded an immediate annulment. Big Mike, in turn, demanded a divorce on the grounds of abandonment.

"When a female tricks another woman into marrying her," insisted Bubbles in court, "the deceived female has every reason to leave. And, obviously, Mike was a gal because he didn't have the traditional masculine apparatus to be considered a guy."

"That's not necessarily so," responded a medical report in Mike's behalf. "The fact is, Mike's transsexual. In other words, he's actually a male entrapped in a female body."

"What's more," added Mike, "the Supreme Court in this state recognized my masculinity by permitting me to change my name just a short time ago from Michelle to Mike. Therefore, I'm entitled to a divorce as requested because Bubbles deserted me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Mike to divorce his perplexed bride on the grounds of abandonment?

This is how the jduge ruled: NO! The judge held that assuming that Mike was a male entrapped in the body of a female as urged, the record (including the change of name proceeding) does not show that the entrapped male had sufficiently escaped to enable Mike to perform the male funcions required in a marriage.

And, concluded the judge, since a marriage is and always has been a contract between an woman and a man, no valid marriage existed between Bubbles and Mike as to entitle Mike to bring an action for a divorce.

Highway use tax return must be filed soon

ST. LOUIS — Owners of large trucks, truck tractors or buses in Missouri are required to file a federal highway use tax return, Form 2290, by Aug. 31.

"The tax generally applies to single- unit trucks weighing 13,000 pounds or more, to truck tractors weighing 5,500 pounds or more, to trucks of 9,000 or more pounds equipped for use in combinations, and to buses with a gross weight of more than 26,000 pounds," said Richard C. Voskuil, IRS district director.

Revenue from the highway use tax program assists states in financing the interstate highway system, but the tax is imposed on these vehicles using any public highways, city streets, state roads and interstate roadways.

"The tax year for the highway use tax begins July 1 and runs through the following June 30. For vehicles placed in service after July, Form 2290 must be filed with the IRS service center serving the vehicle owners by the last day of the month following the month a vehicle is used on a public highway for the first time," Voskuil added.

Further information on the proper filing of the federal highway use tax returns are available at the Missouri IRS district office. Ask for IRS Publication 349, "Federal Highway Use Tax".

Dudley man's death ruled accidental

POPLAR BLUFF -- Accidental drowning was ruled the cause of death of Charles Glenn Griffin, 21, of Dudley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glendell William Griffin.

Griffin has been fishing in the St. Francis River near Fisk with two companions Saturday. The two left Griffin in the evening and reported him missing Sunday afternoon, according to a sheriff's department report.

Recovery operations began Sunday evening but the body was not located . Several observers spotted Griffin's body floating in the river Monday morning near the area where he was presumed to have drowned.

The body was recovered and taken to Doctors Hospital for an autopsy. Death occurred Saturday evening, according to the report of Coroner Larry Cotrell.

Griffin was born in Dexter on March 21, 1953. He attended Dexter and Dudley schools and lived in Stoddard County all of his life. He was a farm laborer and had served in the Air Force.

In addition to his parents, Griffin is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. James of Zalma and Mrs. Myrtle Townsend of Dudley, and a brother, Randall Griffin of Dudley.

Burial followed in Dudley Cemetery.

Park system holding its own

Camping attendance rose 4 per cent last month compared with July of last year, James L. Wilson, state director of natural resources, said Friday.

There were 215,340 overnight campers in the 34 state parks where camping is allowed, compared with 207,987 for July of 1973.

Total state park attendance was off 3 per cent for July, Wilson said.

Year-to-date figures show total camping attendance from Jan. 1 through July 31 was 526,385, down 1 per cent from 534,196 for the same period last year. Total park attendance is down 8 per cent for the year, from 6,996,474 a year ago to 6,435,375 this year.

Deason was elected in April to a two-year term.

"I feel that I have been shunned, rejected and condemned by those that I have devoted much time and finances to and for, and frequently prevented from performing assigned duties when unauthorized persons are called in to perform my work," Deason said. "During the past five months, I have found the people of the city to be so widely split in viewpoints that I now believe no one person can assume a 'middle of the road' attitude in order to bridge this gap."

Deason is a school teacher in the Parma system and is a retired serviceman. He came to Parma from Tennessee in 1969.

World news in brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overwhelming praise except from some longstanding Republican foes virtually guarantees Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation by Congress as vice president. The question is how soon. Chairmen of both House and Senate confirmation committees declined to set any target date, and House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter J. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., did not rule out confirmation after the November elections.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to protect workers' pension rights seems assured of early enactment by Congress. The House passed the bill with only two dissenting votes and the measure is scheduled for a vote today in the Senate. Senate backers say they know of no opposition to the bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a victory for President Ford, the House has voted to cut a $20 billion mass transit bill down to the $11 billion he requested. The House sent the bill to the Senate Tuesday after the funding authorization was reduced by a 257-125 vote. The bill would authorize the first federal operating subsidies to hardpinched mass transit systems, as well as money for buying new equipment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford planned to sign today a $25 billion education bill extending Great Society school aid programs and imposing new busing curbs. In what was viewed as a peace-making gesture, major education organizations were invited to witness the bill signing. Many had battled with former President Nixon over his not infrequent vetoes of education money bills.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to re-examine all publicly financed items installed in Richard M. Nixon's Florida and California homes with an eye to recovering what it profitably can, according to the head of the General Services Administration. Arthur F. Sampson said his agency will "look at every item" installed while Nixon was President, and then decide what should be done with them now.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has pledged not to seek wage-price controls, saying recent experience makes it clear that compulsory controls would be most undesirable. Ford's statement came as Congress completed action on his request to re-establish a wage and price monitoring agency.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten oil companies have agreed to repay some $103.7 million in overcharges to their customers. The Federal Energy Administration also reported that four other oil companies have been notified they are suspected of overcharges totaling $90.7 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — The profits of sugar refiners have jumped to record levels while the price of sugar in the supermarket has soared in a year from 79 cents to $2 for a five-pound bag. Refiners say crop failures in recent years have stimulated world bidding for the scarce commodity. And the United States, which imports more than one half of its sugar from Latin America, the Philippines and other foreign sources, is in the competition. They also say the tight supply situation has given them the opportunity to raise their profit margins on the once-abundant but low-profit item.

HARTS, W. Va. (AP) — Billy Duty has been staying close to home during the miners' weeklong memorial vacation, enjoying life with Iva Jean and the kids. "I've been reading in the Logan Banner what the coal operators are saying," he said Tuesday as he sat in his living room just over the mountain from Little Harts Creek. "This week is giving those operators a taste of what might happen later on." In addition to being a miner at Bethlehem's No. 46, Duty also is president of United Mine Workers Local 656 and chairman of his mine safety committee. "Most of the men don't want the safety job," he said, running a hand through his curly red hair and grinning. "They're afraid the company will be mad, but I don't care. The coal companies don't give a damn if I get killed under that mountain. They'll just drive over my body to get at that coal."

A POSITIVE IMAGE

We readily admit that in our performance of a funeral service, we are trying to create a positive "image" which people will remember. We know that if each member of our staff is meticulously attired, if our premises are immaculate, and if our spotless motor coaches function smoothly, this image will have no discordant notes. Then the spiritual values inherent in the service will stand forth, because the physical setting contains no distracting elements.

Cardinals fail to hold lead

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron believes his batting average has been anemic but it's getting healthier.

"You might say I'm hitting .269 now?" asked Aaron Tuesday night after his two singles and a double helped the Atlanta Braves to an 8-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a National League baseball game.

"Well, at least that's more than I weigh," said the home run king.

Clyde King, the Braves' manager, admired Aaron's performance but was at something of a loss for words.

"Well, what can you say about him, he's just unbelievable," said King.

Marty Perez also collected three hits for Atlanta and Darrell Evans and Leo Foster had two each.

"Now it seems like everybody wants to get into the act," said King. "Marty Perez is as hot as a firecracker. Leo Foster came in tonight and did a great job.

"And Evans is the only one I really want to talk about. He's starting to come around. Even when he wasn't hitting like we all know he's capable of, he kept up the good fielding and base running."

One of Evans' hits was a two-run homer which helped the Braves to a four-run second inning. His other safety was a triple.

The victory was Atlanta's ninth in the past 11 games and second straight over the East Division-leading Cardinals.

St. Louis got off to a two-run lead in the first with singles by Ted Sizemore and Reggie Smith and Joe Torre's double.

Foster led off the Braves' second with a single and later scored when Mike Tyson threw wildly to second. Vic Correll, who also had singled, scored when Garr hit into a double play. Perez then singled and Evans unloaded his 15th homer of the season.

Ken Reitz and Mike Tyson each singled in a Cardinal run in the sixth and Bake McBride drove in one in the seventh.

SEMSU opens at Delta St.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri State University Indians are the conference champs now but the Springfield Bears are the favorites to take the conference crown away from the Indians this season.

"When you're the defending champion everybody's after you," said coach Lohr in his first year as head coach. "But, we figure we'll have a respectable team in 1974."

The Indians expect to have two quarterbacks to run the team this season. "We haven't had this situation here in a long while," said Lohr, who served under Tom Thrower for five years.

After the loss of Lance Brune, quarterback was an area of concern for coach Lohr. Another position which Lohr must be concerned with is at tackle where David Means left vacant. Means has been starting for the Buffalo Bills in preseason practice.

The Indians have a good crop of junior college transfers which are expected to help. Anthony Wallace in the back field is a speedster along with Bob Everage and Randy Hoerman.

The Indians are going with the "Houston Veer" offense this season. "This is a high risk type of offense," said coach Lohr. "But, it also gives you more options offensively.

Weiser is familiar with the offense having played it at Fort Scott.

Meet the Dogs

Sikeston high school students, parents and members of the press will get to meet and take pictures of the 1974 SHS Bulldog football team Friday night at Public School Stadium when the school hosts its annual Parent - Press Picture evening.

Players will report for equipment checkout at 5 p.m. and picture taking will follow around 6 p.m., which will be followed by an open house in the Dog House for all present. Refreshments will be served.

Indians look toward winning season

Coach Arment noted that some of these boys were on the basketball team last year which won the regional tournament and played on the summer baseball team that won the league title and he thinks they will continue to win on the gridiron this fall.

Coach Arment doesn't make any predictions but hinted that this could be the season for a winner.

One of the biggest pluses for the Tribe coaching staff is the large crop of seniors. "We've lacked the leadership and experience of upperclassmen in the past," noted Arment but this year we have 20 seniors on the roster and we plan to make up the bulk of our squad with them."

Junior Robert Roundtree will be making a strong bid for the starting quarterback position. Robert was an outstanding basketball player as well. "Our aerial attack should be much stronger this season," commented coach Arment. The Indians hope to have a stronger running attack this season. Last year they were forced to go to the air much more than they liked to.

"With a good backfield we should be able to go either way more effectively," the coach said.

Terry Shands will be switched from end to fullback this season and should help the running game considerably.

Coach Arment expects Poplar Bluff to be the toughest team in the conference this season and expects Paragould, Ark. to be the toughest test on the schedule.

Hayti returns 15 starters

HAYTI — Head football coach Jerry Cecil and assistant Virgil Martin will be starting their sixth season as the Indians mentors.

The Indians finished in a tie for second place in the Southern Division of the Souhteast Missouri football conference with a 6-3 record behind Dexter.

Coach Cecil will have seven offensive starters and eight defensive starters to build his team around in 1974. He will also have three of the four starters frm 1973 back as well.

With breakway running back Eddie Martin in the lineup Hayti could be very explosive offensively. Along with speedster Martin there will be veteran Danny White and quarterback Jimmy Morgan. The fourth starter will be Patrick Thomas.

John Mark Chism, a 5-11, 180 pound junior, was switched from guard to center and played the last seven games at center. Back on the line will be 220 pound Charles Raymond and 185 pound Terry Ray.

To replace his starting ends that graduated coach Cecil will have to use David Ledbetter and Joe Taylor. The tight end will probably be 190 pound Alex Clinton.

Letters to the Editor

August 1, 1974

Dear Doctor,

Now I know what Patrick Henry meant when he said, 'Give me liberty or give me death.' I am sick and tired of being enslaved to a hostile bureaucracy. This is either our country with a good constitution to govern it or we are all slaves of the bureaucracy. We had better decide now.

You can not do a single thing but what some ass from the bureaucracy sticks his incompetent nose into it. It extends from the highest to the lowest of American life. Perhaps the kids are right. The 'establishment' is making all our lives miserable. Their answer is revolution. My answer is that we have a superior document in the constitution. Let's start living by it even if we have to hit a few people over the head with two- by- fours.

Impeach Nixon? Why? He is just a damn crook like most of us are becoming. Why blame him for our own shortcomings? Friends, I have had enough. Probably we had better see if America can work as America was designed. It was a republic — not a democracy — and our constitution built the most powerful nation on earth. Let's see whether the United States of America is really a republic or are we all slaves to the bureaucracy. I, for one, would as soon be dead as to lick the back side of an arrogant bureaucracy.

Probably right now you should read the constitution. It might help, also, if members of the supreme court read it. By the way, see if you can find one place where it mentions that we are a democracy which means everybody, no matter how ignorant, can participate in running our country. It is a republic. This implies that only people with a stake in America can run it. That, I rather like.

Let's look at one or two parts of the constitution. It very clearly defines what the government should do and very definitely says that all other functions shall be up to the states. Now let's take the biggest department in federal government. That is The Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Not one damn word is said in the constitution about health, education or welfare. Those functions are left to the fifty states. Again, check it and see. If we are governed by the constitution, then the first thing to do would be to scrap The Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

This is so simply written that a ten- year- old could interpret it. Yet, we have Supreme Court Justices who just can't read and Congressmen who just can't read and an Executive Department that just can't read. It is time to quit, fellows. I don't mean to revolt. I mean to throw a bunch of the silly bastards out of here — say about three to five million.

Let's take the matter of money, our basis of exchange: The constitution makes it quite clear that we shall never debase our money. Funny, people seem not to be familiar with the word debase, even congress and the supreme court. It means to never issue a dollar bill that we haven't a dollar's worth of gold, silver or other precious material in the treasury to back it. This seems logical to me. To do anything else is absolutely forbidden by the constitution.

So look in your wallet and you haven't got one bit of money that is backed. You have federal reserve notes. Oh, boy. This is lovely for the bureaucrats for they can issue federal reserve notes to meet almost any expense. They very frequently do.

We could go on for many a paragraph. What I am really saying, I am sick of being a slave of the bureaucrats and I am sick of being a slave with the absolute assurance that my grandchildren will pay through the nose for the decisions based on what the bureaucrats think. That is, of course, if they think at all. Probably not.

Gentlemen, it is time to stop. Either this is the Republic of the United States of America and we can fire the bureaucrats by the millions or the bureaucrats have us all enslaved. I think we had better find out now.

Do you agree?

You know, everytime I get my tail waving about something, I find there is absolutely no use putting a medical item in because the doctors won't read it. If you agree with me, show the item above to your local newspaper publisher and tell him he is perfectly free to reprint it in its entirety. He is not welcome to reprint a paragraph or two. Do put a credit line in for me and give my address. I would like to see how many people think as I do.

Dear Sir:

Jack Anderson's recent column "Natural Gas Heating Costs on the Rise" unfortunately contributes to public misunderstanding of the deep- seated causes of our nation's energy problems by attempting to cast the oil industry in the role of villain.

Few enjoy Mr. Anderson's special status of access to government documents, so we aren't in a position to comment on the so- called "secret report" of the Senate Commerce Committee staff. If, in fact, the report says the oil companies "succeeded in tripling the price for oil in little over a year," it must have been written by a modern- day Rip Van Winkle who surely must have been asleep during the Arab embargo and who is completely oblivious to the fact that the OPEC nations have quadrupled their price for oil over the past year.

Mr. Anderson and the "secret report" make much of the downturn in the success ratio of exploratory drilling operations for natural gas in the Louisiana offshore area. Let's look at the facts:

(1) In 1972, the total number of exploratory wells drilled in the area was 207. In 1973, the total was 208. These totals are considerably higher (by approximately 40 per cent) than the number of exploratory wells drilled in 1969 (147 wells) and 1970 (140 wells). Clearly, there was no lack of drilling activity on the part of the industry.

(2) When Mr. Anderson told his readers "offshore drilling was producing as high as 24.2 per cent success in other parts of the country," he failed to mention that he was really talking about offshore Texas. Examination of the data shows that offshore Louisiana, contrary to the impression left by Mr. Anderson, historically has not enjoyed the success in bringing in gas wells that offshore Texas has. And this is not a one- year or two- year phenomenon. From 1969 to 1973, 969 exploratory wells were drilled in Louisiana waters, with only 55 gas wells coming in. During the same period, 305 exploratory wells were drilled in Texas waters, with 52 gas wells resulting. In every one of the five years, offshore Louisiana had a lower ratio of success than offshore Texas.

(3) Drilling in offshore Louisiana waters is now taking place in the frontier areas where there is a higher degree of uncertainty and a greater likelihood of failure. The fewer wells drilled in offshore Texas waters were drilled on the more likely prospects where a greater success ratio would normally be expected.

(4) Mr. Anderson makes much of the fact that the singular lack of success occurred in areas listed as extremely promising by geologists. Anyone who knows anything about the petroleum business knows a geologist's report isn't a magic wand! The only way to find oil or gas is to drill for it, and most of the time -- particularly in wildcat drilling -- you come up empty-handed.

(5) Gas producers have not been sitting on their recent discoveries. According to a recent study done by the Natural Gas Supply Committee, the great bulk of the "shut-in" gas wells in the areas off the Texas and Louisiana coasts were committed to contract as of January 1, 1974. According to a study by the Federal Power Commission of the "producible shut-in" federal leases in offshore Texas and Louisiana, as of January, 1974, the "proved" reserves attributable to such leases and not committed to contract amounted to approximately seven- tenths of one per cent of the nation's total proved natural gas reserves. The primary reason for "producible shut-in" leases not committed to contract is that these leases, although containing volumes of gas reserves which could be produced, do not have sufficient reserves to justify the large investments by pipeline companies necessary to extend the pipe lines and to build the necessary facilities to connect these leases. Some of the leases in the "producible shut-in" category were shut- in because a contract of sale had not been executed, although contract negotiations were going on.

Risco woman 4th to be charged in drug probe

NEW MADRID — Terrie Wallace of Risco was arraigned Tuesday in Magistrate Court on a felony charge of disposal of a controlled substance by giving away amphetamine without a license on July 9.

Mrs. Wallace has been released under $1,000 bond and is to re- appear Sept. 4 for a preliminary hearing which she requested.

She is the fourth person to be charged with drug violations upon information contained in a report to New Madrid County Prosecuting Attorney Hal E. Hunter Jr. The report was filed by state highway patrol undercover narcotic agents who had been working in the Malden-Risco areas for several weeks.

James Allan Foley, his wife, Ronna Gail Foley and her sister, Terry Lee Dubois were charged with drug violations following a raid at the Foley home in Risco early Saturday morning. Mrs. Foley was released from custody Monday after posting $2,000 bond.

Junior Lynn White and LaVern White of Savannah, Tenn. Route One, charged with the Aug. 4 burglary and larceny of a trailer home in the Scrub Ridge community near Portageville owned by Jean Carroll requested a preliminary hearing on the charges and were placed under $500 bonds each.

The Whites, who voluntarily agreed to return to New Madrid County from Tennessee, are accused, along with Boyd White of Portageville Route One, of breaking, entering and stealing a 12- gauge shotgun, a jar of pennies valued at $4, two portable radios and shotguns shells valued together at $100.

Robert Russell Mayo was fined $125 on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was given a six- months suspended jail sentence, placed on probation for one year and his driver's license was suspended for one year.

Bobby Gene Fincher drew a $115 fine and the same punishment when he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Fincher was also fined $20 on a charge of operating a vehicle with expired truck license.

Charged with careless and imprudent driving, Robert Anthony Kosky and Leonard Holyfield each paid $40 fines; and Roger Neil Golightly and Deborah Ellen Cummins each paid $25 fines.

Herman Willoughby was ordered to pay $150 per month beginning Sept. 1 for the support of three children and was assessed $25 court costs on a non- support charge.

Fined on speeding charges were Joe William Ray and Ronald Gene Ballard, $50 each; Bobby Gene Hayes, $47; Michael Edward Chambliss, $39; Jack Arthur Miller and Linda Jo Spitzmiller, $30 each; Raymond Gene Sanders and Dolan Ray Uthoff, $26 each; Paul Russell Allen, $21; and Ray Eugene Harris Jr., $20.

Cheap plumbing fixtures not always best buy

The cheapest isn't always your "best buy." This is especially true in plumbing fixtures, faucets, shower heads, piping, valves and drains, the Plumbing- Heating- Cooling Information Bureau says.

The cheapest fixtures are usually undersized and lose their luster in short order. Cheap fauets, shower heads, drains and valves, especially the imported kind, don't stand up under continuous use. They often break down within the 1st year and must be replaced, whereas quality products costing only a little more will last up to 15 years or more, and in some cases even as long as the building.

And when it comes to piping behind the wall or under the floor, quality is even more important, because to replace it calls for breaking through the wall or floor, a messy and expensive job.

The cost of replacing cheap fixtures and other plumbing is only part of the frustration. Undersized fixtures are a source of inconvenience and irritation.

Farm Bureau Queen

New Madrid County Farm Bureau queen, center, is Janet Hulshof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hulshof of Portageville. Sherri Hillis, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hillis of Lilbourn, was named first alternate, and Linda Sullenger, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Sullenger of New Madrid, was selected second alternate.

Miss Hulshof crowned

RISCO — The 1974-75 New Madrid County Farm Bureau queen was crowned Friday night following the annual dinner and business meeting in the Risco High School cafetorium.

Miss Janet Hulshof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hulshof of Portageville, was crowned queen by the retiring queen, Miss Cindi Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole of East Prairie.

First alternate to the queen was Miss Herri Hillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hillis of Lilbourn, and Miss Linda Sullenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Sullenger of New Madrid, was chosen second alternate.

The queen received her crown, an engraved plaque, a dozen red roses, a gift and her Farm Bureau queen banner.

Cuz Morelan, a Portageville radio personality, served as master of ceremonies for the event. Judges were Mrs. Patti Simmons of rural Parma, Mrs. Linda Riley of rural Bernie, Phillip Winters of Sikeston and Steve McElrath of Kennett, a Farm Bureau agent.

Prior to the contest, Walter Landers introduced the following former Farm Bureau queens, who were special guests: 1966 queen, Charlotte Eftink Kincton of Portageville; 1967 queen, Regina Landers Cummins of rural Malden; 1968 queen, Glenda Schallert Parker of Dyersburg, Tenn.; 1969 queen, Amonda Smith of Portageville; 1970 queen, Vera Porter Strickland of New Madrid; 1971 queen, Pamela Landers Malone of Memphis, Tenn.; and 1973 queen, Cindi Cole of East Prairie.

Four former queens were located but unable to attend. They were 1960 queen, Marty Thompson Peck of Nashville, Tenn.; 1961 queen, Berta McWaters Schuerenburg of Sikeston; 1965 queen, Paulette Crumley Combs of Forsyth; and 1972 queen, Christi Curtis of Matthews.

Mrs. Paul Cummins Jr. of Malden Route One was planner and coordinator of queen contest.

Entertainment was presented by soloist Chris Landers and pianist Vanessa Gibbs, who presented "Buttons and Bows", "If You Love Me" and "Why Me?"

Peter Myers, Farm Bureau president, conducted the business session and served as master of ceremonies for the remainder of the meeting, during which resolutions were reviewed and approved.

Myers was re- elected president, Walter Landers was named vice president and Dub Widner treasurer.

A LEGAL QUESTION

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—The British Columbia Medical Association has endorsed a report from its drug habituation committee opposing a suggestion that doctors be responsible for committing heroin users to compulsory treatment. The committee said it favors compulsory treatment, but under "a legal procedure which would provide the defendant with adequate safeguards and protect the physician from exposure to criminal threat."

Demo midterm convention plans continue

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Planning for the Democrats' midterm convention here in December continued Monday after Robert Strauss, the national party chairman, dismissed the walkout on the Democratic Charter Commission as a publicity stunt.

The two-day meeting of the Charter Commission ended abruptly Sunday afternoon when some 50 liberals bolted, leaving the commission without the necessary quorum for action. The walkout was led by California Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr.

"Let's get this walkout in perspective," Strauss said Monday during a break in a meeting of the arrangements committee which is preparing for the mid-term convention.

"Willie Brown came here on Friday—remember that—and he told the press then he'd be walking out. He felt he had to do something. He's in political trouble in his own state."

Brown had thrown his support to former California Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti in the Democratic gubernatorial campaign. Moretti lost the nomination June 4 to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Brown signaled for the walkout when Doris Hardesty, a recent Strauss appointee from Rockville, Md., proposed a change in an article concerning delegate selection for national conventions.

Baptist school in St. Louis to close down

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Trustees of Missouri Baptist College have announced the closing of the St. Louis County school because of financial troubles.

Rev. Dwayne Lasseter, board of trustees secretary, said Saturday it was impractical to continue operating because of the projected loss of over $200,000 for the coming year. He said efforts failed to refinance the college's debts and the Missouri Baptist Convention had denied a request for an interim loan.

Missouri Baptist had been scheduled to open Sept. 4. Fees and tuition will be refunded to students who have registered for the fall term, Rev. Lasseter said.

The college opened in 1968 with a two-year academic program and later changed to a four-year college.

About 300 students were expected for the fall term.

Tornado season expected to be most devastating

WASHINGTON — The 1974 tornado season is expected to be one of the most devastating in our nation's history, the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has announced.

Allen Pearson, director of NOAA's National Severe Storms Forecast Center said: "We will probably have fewer tornadoes this year then in 1973, but through July we have had more maxi tornadoes -- the ones that kill -- then in any previous year."

The National Severe Storms Forecast Center is a facility of NOAA's National Weather Service.

Pearson said that, so far in 1974, there have been more strong, wide and long- lasting tornadoes than ever before. "It's maxi tornadoes such as these that really worry us," Pearson added. "In an average year two out of 10 of all tornadoes for the country are maxis. About 25 tornadoes account for most of the deaths. We did a study of fatalities and found that one per cent of the tornadoes produced 80 per cent of the deaths."

Pearson describes the maxi -- or super -- tornado as one that may be as much as a mile and a half wide, and up to 200 miles long. But more typically they are about a quarter of a mile wide and stay on the ground for about 25 miles. These violent storms live as long as three hours and have rotational winds as high as 300 miles an hour.

"Fortunately we do our very best job of forecasting this type of storm. And the local National Weather Service office certainly does its very best job of warning on these big tornadoes." he said.

In 1973, a new all-time record for the number of tornadoes was set. Of the 1,109 reported, 34 were killer tornadoes. There were 87 deaths.

Through July 1974, 725 tornadoes have been reported and the NSSFC estimates that 105 were maxis, with 65 of those causing one or more deaths.

The largest outbreak in 1974 occurred on April 3-4. More than 100 tornadoes struck in 14 states over a 12-hour period. Pearson says that 55 of these could be classified as super tornadoes. More than 300 people died during this outbreak.

Another large outbreak occurred two months later, on June 8, and caused widespread destruction in Oklahoma.

Two Oklahoma cities were particularly hard hit -- Drumright, a community of about 4,000 situated 40 miles west southwest of Tulsa, and Tulsa itself -- the worst tornadoes in their history. Thirteen people were killed in or near Drumright, and damage was estimated at $3.5 million when the tornado struck at 5 p.m. Two hours hater Tulsa was hit, causing damage estimated at more than $20 million. One death was reported in Tulsa.

The low death toll was attributed to advanced perparedness, public awareness and swift response to timely warnings by civil preparedness agencies, the news media, amateur radio organizations, police and fire departments and several individuals in both cities.

Dr. George P. Cressman, director of the National Weather Service, joined the cities of Tulsa and Drumright Aug. 15, at special ceremonies honoring those institutions and persons whose actions were instrumental in keeping the death toll down.

In presenting the Public Service Award -- the National Weather Service's highest honor -- Dr. Cressman said:

"The state of readiness and fine preparedness action June 8 were outstanding -- a textbook performance. There is little doubt that hundreds of lives were saved by these actions -- actions that really began months and, in some cases, years ago with careful planning and organization. The payoff came on June 8."

Dr. Cressman was accompanied at the ceremonies by Lawrence Mahar, director of the National Weather Service's Southern region and Ben Barker, official in charge at the Tulsa weather service office whose staff provided a continuous flow of advisories, watches and warnings issued 7-12 hours in advance of the tornadoes.

The Public Service Award for the City of Drumright made special note of a comprehensive siren warning system and a weather watch tower used in their preparedness plans. The watch tower was manned early on June 8 and a sighting resulted in quick activation of the clusters of sirens and subsequent protective actions by an alerted citizenry.

A nursing home in Drumright was destroyed. The 102 patients were moved to interior hallways. Seven of the 13 deaths in Drumright were from the nursing home.

The city of Tulsa also maintains an excellent siren system which was activated several times beginning at 7:03 p.m. The Tulsa tornadoes were in the city between about 7:13 and 7:38 p.m.

Also cited by the National Weather Service and the city of Tulsa were the news media that broadcast a continuous flow of information and tornado safety rules from early morning to very late at night. One radio station, KRMG, for a time was the only broadcasting outlet with power. Telephone lines between the Tulsa WSO and KRMG permitted "live" broadcasts of Weather Service warnings and advisories.

Even a newspaper, the Tulsa Tribune, came in for recognition at the awards ceremony. In the edition that hit the news stands at about 2 p.m., front page bulletins highlighted weather service forecasts of area flooding and the possibility of tornadoes.

An award was also presented to the Tulsa Repeaters, a group of amateur radio operators, who serve as the network spotters for eastern Oklahoma. Tornado spotters are the "eyes" of the weather service.

Alerted in the early morning to the potential of tornado development, 46 of the 100- man volunteer group were dispatched to strategic visual outposts as well as at the Tulsa weather service office and at police and highway patrol headquarters.

When weather service meteorologists detected signs of a tornado on radar, the spotters were asked to confirm the sightings. It was that confirmation that triggered the sirens in Tulsa.

Mayor Cleo Hutchinson of Drumright was on a high hill overlooking the city. They were in radio communication with one another and with police headquarters. Their sighting of the tornado a few miles southwest of the city gave Drumright five to 10 critical minutes to "take cover"

Kiwanis told of trip to Orient

Bea and Maurice Stauffer Tuesday night told Kiwanians about a recent trip to the Orient. The Stauffers presented the program for the Kiwanis Club meeting at the Ramada Inn.

The Stauffers, as members of a social club in Memphis, traveled on a charter plane to Alaska and then on to Japan. Pictures of points of interest along the trip were included in the program.

Mrs. John Nunnelee and Mrs. Lenzie Beck were guests.

THE MIGHTIEST SWAT OF ALL.

Down through the years, baseball has had its heavy hitters . . . the sluggers who could be counted on to bring home the runs. Favorites of coaches and fans alike, these are the players who draw fans and win ball games.

Advertising has its heavy hitters too. And the mightiest swat of all is found in the smallest ads . . . the Classified ads in your newspaper. They do more things for more people at lower cost than any other form of advertising.

Call on Classified when you have a communications need . . . whether it's buying, selling, hiring, renting or just telling. It's a sure hit!

Letters to the Editor

Aug. 15, 1974

The Editor,

Sikeston, Mo. has some very nice people. I don't know what we would have done if it hadn't been for "Buddy" Pearson and his wife Norma of 941 Cambridge, Sikeston, Mo.

We had attended the National High School Rodeo in Tomah, Wisconsin and started home early Monday morning. There were seven of us in two vehicles, pulling horse trailers loaded with four horses the kids had used in competition.

Before we reached St. Louis, we started trying to find a place to stay and a place for the horses. It was impossible. Everything was full. It was almost 5 A.M. when we reached Sikeston. We were tired and the horses had to be unloaded. Just outside Sikeston, we had a blowout on one of the trailers. Mr. Pearson stopped to offer his assistance. He told us to follow him into town, parked his truck, rode with us and directed us to his home where he helped us unload the horses and kept them for the night in his pasture. He woke his wife and she offered to hay them the next morning. He then called and got us rooms and rode with us to the motel and found us a place to park the horse trailers out of the way before we took him to his truck and he went on to Memphis.

My husband used to furnish the stock for the Sikeston rodeo before he sold his rodeo string and he always enjoyed going there.

We will be eternally grateful to the Pearsons.

The Thomas' — Nachitoches, La.

The Kinney's — Sulphur, La.

HE TOOK THE WATER WITH HIM

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Franklin County officials failed to pay a water bill, the City of Columbus shut off water to the county Auto Title Building.

After employes complained, it was found that the water bill, for $36.84, was among unfinished business on the desk of a worker who had gone on vacation. A flurry of phone calls got the water service restored.

Book Review

THE DREAM AND THE DEAL

The Federal Writers' Project 1935 - 1943 by Jerre Mangione Equinon/ Avon $3.95

For the eight turbulent years between 1935 and 1943, the New Deal kept thousands of writers from starvation in one of the most massive cultural aid programs the U.S. government has ever devised – the Federal Writers' Project. THE DREAM AND THE DEAL is the tempestuous chronicle of this chapter in American sociopolitical history. As Alfred Kazin wrote in a eulogy to the Project: "Out of the need to find something to say about every community and the country around it... there emerged an America unexampled in density and regional diversity." The Project became a symbol of the "rewakened American sense of its own history."

Author Jerre Mangione, former National Coordinating Editor of the Federal Writers' Project, tells the story of the writers who were involved in the Project (such as Saul Bellow, Nelson Algren, Conrad Aiken, Ralph Ellison), and takes a perceptive look at the individual dramas of the various state projects.

"THE DREAM AND THE DEAL...will be useful for a long time. It is the best record we are likely to have of a rowdy, idealistic, sometimes farcical experiment that failed, yet succeeded too, mostly in unexpected ways, and that refuses to be forgotten...It is an easy book to read, and the facts it presents are important to everyone even faintly interested in the relation between government and the arts. We should be grateful to Mangione for putting together the whole of an almost forgotten story."

--Malcolm Cowley

Currently, Jerre Mangione is Professor of English Literature and director of the writing program at the University of Pennsylvania.

Squash, a native to the Western Hemisphere, was first consumed by the Indians. The Narragansett Indians referred to the vegetable as "askutasquash" meaning "green-raw unripe", probably because they ate it raw.

COOKING-UP

By WANDA ATCHLEY

Choose your dessert to compliment the meal that precedes it. Serve a light taste-tempter if your main course is substantial. Go to a rich concoction when your menu is not too heavy. Select just the right flavor, texture and color, and provide a perfect ending to that special meal.

The only problem is that eating too many sweet desserts puts on unwanted pounds. One solution is to plan desserts that do contribute to the day's need for milk, fruits and eggs. Another solution is to make sure that sweets are eaten only after the day's nutrient needs are met, and that they do not make you exceed your required calories for the day.

CARROT-PECAN CAKE

1¼ cup salad oil
2 cups sugar
2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
4 eggs
3 cups grated carrots

Combine oil and sugar; mix well. Sift half the dry ingredients into sugar mixture; blend. Sift remaining dry ingredients alternately with eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Add carrots; mix well. Mix in pecans.

Pour into lightly oiled 10-inch tube pan. Bake in 325-degree oven for about one hour and 10 minutes. Cool upright in pan; remove from pan. Split into 3 layers.

tea topics

By David and Eunice Bigelow

Everyone knows the answer to that eternal question, "Why did you climb the mountain?"

"Because it is there."

But tea plants, those famous mountain climbers, have a more specific answer. "Because the higher the elevation, the finer the tea."

In the shadow of Mt. Everest, when the mist lifts, you can see the tea gardens of Darjeeling, India. These cultivated growing areas are in the rarefied air of 3,000 to 7,000 feet. Hilly tea plants grow at a slower pace, adding flavor day by day. However, the yield of new leaves is fewer, making each wee leaf rarer and more expensive.

Tea from the rolling ranges of Ceylon is softer and more fragrant, such as Constant Comment, which is further flavored with orange and spices.

The next time you brew a cup of tea, sit back and muse about all the mountains you too have conquered.

Peachy plum compote tasty and colorful

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the loveliest fresh fruit desserts you can make is to combine fresh red poached plums with fresh sliced peaches. Part of the charm of this compote is its gorgeously colored crimson-pink syrup.

FRESH PLUM AND PEACH COMPOTE

12 (about 1½ pounds) fresh red plums
1 cup sugar
¼ cup water
6 large fresh peaches

Wash plums and remove any stems.

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat stir together the sugar and water until sugar dissolves; let bubble gently and briefly until mixture is syrupy. Add plums; simmer uncovered until plum skins begin to burst and syrup turns red. With a slotted spoon remove the plums from the syrup.

Pit 6 of the plums; puree in an electric blender; stir into the syrup in which the plums were cooked; turn into a refrigerator container, cover and chill.

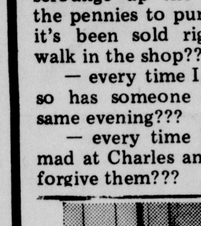
At serving time, peel and slice the peaches and turn into a serving bowl — preferably glass; add the whole chilled plums, then the plum syrup. Serve as is or, if you like, with whipped cream (slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla) or commercial sour cream.

Makes 6 servings.

Fruit compote colorful

The beguiling color of poached fresh red plums makes a wonderful contrast for fresh sliced peaches in this Fresh Plum and Peach Compote.



Coffee Corner by Cherie

Why is it??????

— everything I save some extra money to do something mad and impetuous with, an appliance breaks down??

— every time I buy a new dress and take extra pains for a special occasion I particularly am looking forward to, my face breaks out??

— every time I go to great lengths to fix everyone's favorite dish that night for dinner, they all end up eating away???

— every time I get sick, so does the rest of the family???

— every time I think I've thought a new and wonderful thought, I discover someone had that same thought centuries ago, only they expressed it better???

— every time I turn on television (which is very seldom) to watch a special program I've been looking forward to for weeks, we get company???

— every time I brag to someone on the fellas or the dogs about what they've learned, they make a complete liar out of me???

— every time I want something that costs more than I feel I can afford and I finally scrounge up the courage and the pennies to purchase it with it's been sold right before I walk in the shop???

— every time I plan a party, so has someone else for the same evening???

— every time I get so durn mad at Charles and the fellas, I forgive them???

Green tomato relish can be made at home

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: My family enjoys the Green Tomato Relish I buy in 12-ounce jars which is made — according to the label — with green tomatoes, sugar, corn syrup, salt, vinegar, red and green peppers, onions, mustard seed and carrageen. I'd like to duplicate it. Can you guide me? By the way, what's carrageen? — PUTTER UPPER.

DEAR PUTTER UPPER: Thanks for the good idea. We bought ourselves a jar of the relish you describe and had this fine copy-cat version developed. Carrageen is also called Irish moss, which gives you a clue to its source. It is sometimes used in commercially prepared foods as a suspending agent. It isn't necessary to add it to a home-made relish. — C. B.

GREEN TOMATO RELISH

8 cups chopped green tomato
1½ cups chopped onion
½ cup chopped sweet red pepper
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1½ cups cider vinegar
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon white mustard seed
½ teaspoon white pepper

In a large saucepot stir together the tomato, onion, red and green pepper, sugar, corn syrup, vinegar, salt, mustard seed and white pepper. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and boil gently until vegetables are tender-crisp — about 45 minutes. Leaving ¼-inch head space, ladle into clean hot ½-pint wide-mouth jars with 2-piece metal caps; seal according to manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath for 10 minutes; cool on wire racks or folded cloth; label and store in a cool dry place. Or seal and store in the refrigerator; in this case processing is not necessary. Makes three ½-pint jars.

TOFFEE BARS

Great cookie from a good cook in Winnetka, Ill.

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups unsifted flour
1 egg yolk
Two 6-ounce bars milk chocolate with almonds

Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in egg yolk. Gradually work in flour, using your hands if necessary. Pat over bottom of a 15 by 10 by 1 inch jellyroll pan; smooth with a small metal spatula. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until lightly golden — 15 minutes. Meanwhile break up chocolate at demarcations; as soon as cookie dough is baked place chocolate pieces over top and return to oven until chocolate softens — 2 minutes. Remove from oven and with the small spatula spread chocolate so it covers top. Cool. Refrigerate until chocolate is firm — about 5 minutes. Cut into bars. Store in a tightly covered tin box in a cool place with wax paper or plastic wrap between the layers of cookies.

Salute to spicy foods of Naples

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

I spent two months in Italy some years ago, but I can't boast even a nodding acquaintance with the roast suckling pig stuffed with herbs that is said to entice the people of Rome. Nor can I catalogue the delights of the broiled deviled chicken made famous by the cooks of Florence.

But I did spend some time in Naples and sampled a cross section of the culinary delights of southern Italy.

Naples is the cradle of the pizza, I'm told, but today Neapolitan kitchens roll out these ubiquitous discs mainly for homesick American tourists.

The southern port city is also noted for its pasta and a number of other specialties, including the marinara, or mariner's sauce, that is used on so many Italian dishes the breadth and length of the Italian boot. It is also used as a base for many other sauces. The union of spaghetti and clams so popular in Rome is made by cooking clams in a thick marinara sauce. I didn't have to visit the Eternal City to find that out.

Unlike the American version which is usually made with canned tomatoes and drowned in tomato paste, Neapolitan marinara is made from fresh tomatoes, onions, green pepper and sometimes chopped anchovies. I like to add dry red wine to deepen the flavor and put in a dash of cayenne pepper for a little bite.

Naples goes in heavily for stews of mixed fish seasoned with onion, garlic, parsley, tomatoes, bay leaves and dry white wine. The gimmick is to pour it over slices of fried bread arranged in a soup plate.

The Neapolitans like to consume crusty Italian bread with sharp cheese and wash it down with red wine. When we went boating in the Bay of Naples we used to take along a loaf, a block of provolone and a bottle of robust red.

4 tablespoons olive oil
6 center-cut loin pork chops 1½ inches thick
1 teaspoon minced garlic
½ teaspoon dried oregano, ground
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ bay leaf
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper ground
½ cup dry red wine
1 ounce cognac
1 cup tomato puree
1 tablespoon tomato paste
½ pound sweet green peppers cut in strips
2 flat anchovy filets, drained and rinsed in cold water and minced

In a large, heavy skillet heat 2 tablespoons olive oil, brown chops 3 minutes on each side and set aside on plate. Pour off most of fat and throw in garlic, oregano, thyme, cayenne, bay leaf, salt and pepper and stir over medium heat for 30 seconds. Add wine and brandy and boil to reduce mixture to about ¼ cup. Stir in tomato puree and paste and return chops to skillet. Baste with sauce and cover, simmering 40 minutes, basting once or twice.

Heat remaining oil in another skillet and throw in green peppers, frying 5 minutes. Transfer to pan with pork chops. Add anchovy bits and simmer covered 10 minutes, and uncovered another 10 minutes, till pork is tender and sauce is thick. Serve with a dry red wine. Serves 3.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 21, the 233rd day of 1974. There are 132 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1951, the United States ordered construction of the first atomic submarine.

On this date:

In 1858, slavery was an issue as the famous debates began between political contenders Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas.

In 1918, the World War I battle of the Somme river began in France.

In 1940, Communist revolutionary Leon Trotsky died of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Mexico City.

In 1945, the United States halted World War II lend-lease operations.

In 1959, Hawaii officially became the 50th state of the union. Congress had passed a bill admitting Hawaii on March 18.

Ten years ago, eight people were killed and eight injured when a heavy truck rammed into a passenger train near Leonard, Ont.

Five years ago, the United States ordered the expulsion of a Cuban diplomat to the U.N. on grounds that he sought to get a refugee to undertake a mission relating to the security of the office of president.

One year ago, Vice President Spiro Agnew accused members of the Justice Department of an effort to indict him in the eyes of the public.

Thought for today: The White House is the finest prison in the world—Harry S. Truman.

Bluff city manager praises sales tax

A one per cent sales tax will be the greatest thing that can happen to Sikeston, David Pence, city manager of Poplar Bluff, told city officials and about 30 residents Tuesday night.

Pence spoke at a special planning and zoning commission meeting called to discuss the possibility of adopting a sales tax in Sikeston.

City officials are searching for a way to raise more revenue to pay for needed capital improvements and additional services.

The tax would give the city an estimated $450,000 the first year of its operation. Federal revenue sharing funds are based on the city's tax effort. That means the more taxes the city gets, the more revenue sharing funds it receives.

If the city council decided to go ahead with the tax, it will be submitted to voters in the November general election. It would go into effect April 1, 1975.

Cities need a flexible tax today where everyone can share in the cost of operating the city, Pence said.

One of the best things about a sales tax, is that about 40 per cent of the people who work in the city and use its facilities, live outside the city limits, Pence said. With the sales tax they would help pay for the facilities they use.

He added that real estate taxes are not flexible enough for today's periods of rapidly- rising costs. He pointed out that for Poplar Bluff to bring in the revenue from real estate taxes that it brings in from sales tax, the real estate tax would have to be raised from $2 per $100 assessed valuation to $6 per $100 assessed valuation.

The city sales tax is collected with the state sales tax, Pence said. The state deducts two per cent for cost of collecting the tax.

Pence said the sales tax money should be used for capital improvements and not for financing day to day operations.

Poplar Bluff adopted the sales tax in 1971 after promising its residents it would use the money for capital growth, reduce the real estate tax and eliminate the tax on household goods.

The real estate tax has been reduced from $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.10. Sikeston's real estate tax is $1.50.

Since the sales tax was adopted, Poplar Bluff has added a third fire house, bought land for a fourth, and paid cash for a snorkle truck, saving about $80,000 in interest over what would have been paid on a bond issue. The city has bought two new pumpers with similar savings.

The city is expanding its parks and recreation program greatly and has a full-time park director and assistant.

The municipal library has received $50,000 over the past three years.

The city has built 10 new hangars at the airport and is expanding the runway.

Other improvements financed with sales tax include the street work and the city's industrial development.

Poplar Bluff has spent $1,300,000 for street improvements over the past three years including paving 15 miles of streets and purchasing new street equipment. The city has bought an industrial park and is contributing to an industrial development fund along with the Chamber of Commerce.

Pence said Poplar Bluff could not have had these improvements without the sales tax.

Speaking to merchants concerned with the loss of sales to other towns, Pence said it costs 15 cents a mile to operate a car and the customer would have to buy $15 worth of merchandise for each mile he drove to make up the difference.

He said customers soon forget there is a city sales tax.

"If there is such a thing as a painless tax, the sales tax is the closest thing ot it," Pence said.

Farm implement dealers in the audience expressed concern over the effect on their business.

Pence replied that there is one dealer in Poplar Bluff who is competing with three outside the city limits. The dealer has not moved outside the city, Pence said.

"That one per cent won't make that much difference," he said.

He said one office equipment dealer moved outside the city limits just after the tax went into effect, and in 30 days moved back to town.

In response to a question from the audience, Mayor Frank Ferrell said Sikeston was in good financial condition this year, except it can't afford the needed northside fire station,. and even if it was built, couldn't afford the trucks, equipment, or men to use it. He said the city needs to be doing more street work, but can't afford it, and there is not enough money for the park system.

Ferrell said inflation will make the city's problems worse next year.

Assistant City Manager Bill Whitlock said if residents want more and better services and benefits from the city, they will have to find a way to pay for them.

Whitlock said on a previous occasion that unless the city found a new source of revenue, city services would begin to deteriorate within a year.

Other sources of revenue were discussed, but none of them would raise the needed money.

The merchants showed interest in a cigarette and liquor tax, which Poplar Bluff also has, but it will not raise enough money. As one man said, "People just don't drink and smoke enough."

Pence said 110 cities have sales taxes and most of the cities in the state will have them in the next few years.

Ferrell said he has talked with the mayors of other cities in the area and he said he was told they are waiting for Sikeston to adopt sales tax before they bring the proposal to their residents.

In other action, the commission voted to recommend to the council that the area between Kiwanis and Lions streets from Lee Street to the middle of the block between Jackson and Adams streets be rezoned from "A" single family to "B" two family. The action will allow mobile homes to be placed on permanent foundations in the area.

The commission voted to recommend granting the request from the Drury Inn and Ramada Inn for road signs on Highway 60 across the highway from Keystone Drive.

The commission tabled a request from Dick McDougal, 1040 N. Kingshighway, that the strip of road in front of his house and the island in front of Bloemer's Grocery, be taken over and maintained by the city. As of now, he said, no one claims the street or the island.

Buford Pusser killed today in auto crash

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Buford H. Pusser, 36, the former sheriff of McNairy County whose brushes with violence and death were made into the motion picture "Walking Tall," was killed early today in an automobile accident, authorities said.

Highway Patrol Trooper Paul Ervin said Pusser was killed when his 1974 Corvette ran off U.S. Highway 64 near his home town of Adamsville, Tenn., and struck an embankment. Ervin said Pusser was thrown from the vehicle and apparently was killed instantly.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said there was no evidence of foul play.

The accident occurred hours after Pusser had told a news conference in Memphis that he would play himself in a sequel to "Walking Tall." Filming for the sequel, which was to have been called "Buford," had been scheduled to start Sept. 20 near Jackson, Tenn.

Because of his attempts to clean up McNairy County,

the 6-foot-6, 250-pound Pusser was the target of killers seven times during his six-year tenure as sheriff, which ended four years ago. He was wounded several times and his wife was killed in an ambush assassination attempt on his life.

Ervin said Pusser had attended a fair at Selmer, Tenn., and was returning home at the time of the accident at 12:55 a.m.

He said Pusser's daughter, one of his three children, was following Pusser in a second car filled with young people and witnessed the accident.

"There was no apparent reason for the accident that I could find," Ervin said. "I don't know if there was a tire blowout or not. I couldn't tell from the burned car. There was no evidence of foul play as far as I could determine."

Pusser, among the youngest sheriffs in Tennessee history when first elected at 26 after serving in the Marines and working as a professional wrestler, said plans for the new film called for it to pickup where "Walking Tall" left off — just after the Aug. 12, 1967, ambush of a patrol car in which he and his wife, Pauline, were riding. Mrs. Pusser was killed in the barrage of automatic rifle fire and Pusser's jaw was shot away.

Mississippi authorities seek Butler extradition

JACKSON, Miss. — Mississippi authorities reportedly have instituted extradition proceedings for the return of Dwight Butler, who was patroled from the Mississippi State Penitentiary Aug. 16, 1973, according to J. A. Chamblee of the state probation and parole office in Jackson.

Butler's parole was revoked March 8, 1974, after he was arrested in Stoddard County Mo. and charged with burglary and stealing.

Chamblee said the necessary papers have been filed by the Mississippi probation and parole office with B. C. Ruth, the classification officer at the state penitentiary.

A spokeswoman for Missouri Governor Christopher "Kit" Bond said that the governor had not received the papers as of Aug. 20.

Butler has charges pending against him in three Missouri counties. Woodrow A. Cross, a parole analyst for the Missouri probation and parole board, said as a general rule the state having a prisoner in custody disposes of its charges aginst him first, before returning him to another state.

Butler is presently in the Pemiscot County Jail at Caruthersville, Mo., awaiting a hearing on a fraud charge, stemming from a July 17 incident in which Butler allegedly cashed a check written on the Idle Hour Inn, signed by Butler and made out to himself. He reportedly had two other checks in his possession, allegedly belonging to the Inn.

House allowed to burn

A vacant house at the corner of West North and Alabama streets was allowed to burn down this morning after the flames rekindled. The house caught fire early today. One fireman was hospitalized when he fell and struck his back while climbing into the fire truck to go to the fire. (Daily Standard photo)

2 Sikeston firemen hurt

A fireman was injured early today when he lost his footing and fell from the cab of a fire truck while preparing to respond to a call to a house fire at the corner of West North and Alabama streets.

Dennis Sloan, 27, of 836 Ruth St. lost his footing and fell at 2:25 a.m. as he stepped up into the cab of the fire truck. His back struck the running board on the side of the truck.

Although, in considerable pain, Sloan drove the truck to the fire, but was unable to operate the hose or truck after arriving at the fire scene.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he was admitted and underwent tests this morning.

By late morning, a nurse said his condition had improved and the pain was not as severe as it had been earlier.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer was the only other fireman on the scene until the volunteers began arriving a few minutes later. Linnemeyer tried to operate both the hose and the truck at the same time, jobs normally performed by two men.

Only one man responds on each city fire truck, and he has to wait for Linnemeyer or volunteers to arrive before firefighting operations begin.

A second fireman, David Shain, 318 Missouri St., received first- degree burns around the waist at 4 a.m. when a coffee pot overturned in the firehouse, pouring scalding water over his mid-section. The firemen were making coffee after returning from the fire. He also was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Flames rekindled in the old frame house this morning and firemen let the place burn to the ground.

Linnemeyer said the cause of the fire was not known.

The old house was owned by Dan Bean, 227 Alabama St., who used it for storage.

SPENDING YOUR MONEY

A friend of ours in Washington noticed, in passing, that the Congressional Record of July 22, 1974, reports, among others, the following actions by members of the U. S. Senate:

. They voted to increase from $4 million to $10 million funds for mutual and self- help housing:

. Voted to increase from 10 per cent to 15 per cent the amount of funds that may be used for the administration of special supplemental food programs for women, infants, and children;

. Voted an additional $8 million for rural development grants;

. Voted to distribute additional funds to foreign countries for humanitarian purposes.

And so it goes, day after day, with Congress appropriating more funds, additional amounts, increased appropriations for a thousand and one "worthy causes," all of them with vigorous and sincere supporters and seldom meeting with organized opposition. The result? The money extracted from your income and your earnings increases more and more; or, the money spent by the government over and above that collected in taxes also increases — which means that you as the taxpayer are not only obligated to pay back the borrowed money but you are, in the meantime, charged with the interest on the loan.

One of the measures under active consideration by the Congress at this moment is the formation of a brand new government bureau to be known as the "Consumer Protection Agency," which will call for the appropriation of additional millions upon millions to "protect" you from shrewd and wily Capitalists who are always sneaking around corners, looking for ways to take your money away from you by selling you goods and products you really don't need. And, unless a howl of indignation and protest is heard from the hinterlands, the bill will quite likely pass.

It seems to us that rather than a "consumer" protection agency, what we really need is a "taxpayer" protection agency to protect us from Members of Congress who don't mind how much they spend (of other people's money) for causes in which they believe.

And, incidentally, if you don't want to be hit with the huge bill you will have to pay to support the Consumer Protection Act, it would be wise to let your Representatives in Congress know — and now!

TIME TO CURB CHILD ABUSE

Reports in the news of incredible incidents of child abuse are on the increase. Seldom does a day pass that we are not brought face to face with media reports of inhuman behavior on the behalf of parents or those in whose care children have been placed. It has become a national disgrace.

Not only does it appear that individual, family- style child abuse is on the increase, but that institutionalized children have also shared in mistreatment. In one recent investigation (in the State of Virginia), it was reported that day care facilities for children of welfare recipients failed to meet even minimum requirements for safety, sanitation, health and education.

In another instance, it was reported that emotionally disturbed children of military personnel had been receiving "treatment" that included beatings, solitary confinement for long periods, and "symbolic" buryings in shallow graves.

Shockingly, the Defense Department had been footing the bill for such "treatment" in institutions located in Michigan and Florida, under the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services.

Some satisfaction can be felt from the fact that these abuses to our children are now being brought to light. It may be that rather than an actual increase in child abuse, we are learning from improved and increased methods of investigation and reporting. In any event, now that we know , it should arouse the conscience of all of us to support every effort to wipe out this evil completely. Toward this end, the U. S. Senate Permanent Investigation Subcommittee is beginning to conduct hearings on what Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington has termed "horrible and outrageous abuses of children."

It behooves us to see that State and local laws be strengthened, that vigilance be maintained in every neighborhood, and that severe penalties be instituted for those guilty of child abuse. Failing such local and State vigilance, then we will almost certainly see, as has already been proposed, national standards, enforcement and control of all those responsible for the care of children in public institutions.

BOND'S LIBERALS

The wide - open illegal sale of drugs on state property at the Sedalia acid rock festival recently was just one more manifestation of the liberal air of permissiveness that pervades the administration of Gov. Christopher S. (Kit) Bond.

Law enforcement personnel were ordered to ignore open violations of laws on state property. More than 1,000 persons were treated for drug overdoses at the "festival." One young man died and several others were near death. There were rapes, robberies and assaults. Thugs high on dope wandered around with knives and other weapons. Many carried signs advertising the illegal drugs they had for sale.

Bond claimed his administrators didn't know what they were getting into when they leased the state fairgrounds to promotors of the festival. It is significant that one of the festival promoters is a partner in the advertising firm with the state contract to promote the upcoming state fair.

We assume Bond and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth were aware that the July event had been advertised nationwide as a drug oriented rock festival "on the grass with no hassles, and that's guaranteed." But neither Bond nor Danforth made any attempt to seek a court order blocking the drug festival.

Although Bond has made some fine appointments in his administration, he nevertheless has sought liberals for key positions, such as the Department of Corrections and the Division of Welfare.

Bond condones the hiring of convicted killers as prison guards. One convicted murderer serving a life term was paroled, and then hired as a guard. He is accused of murdering a Bonne Terre woman Friday. The inmate turned guard was flushed from his residence on Capitol Avenue by tear gas Saturday night by law enforcement officers.

Even on the national level Bond seeks to become part of the liberal establishment that almost has destroyed this nation during the last 40 years.

Bond is identified with the minority liberal faction in the Republican Party. Bond evidently believes his faction will gain control if the rules are changed to favor his side, just as McGovern captured control of the Democratic Party in 1972.

Nearly everyone now acknowledges that the McGovernite rule changes in the Democratic Party were a disaster.

One would think the Republican Party would want to avoid a similar mess. But the GOP, at the urging of Bond, has given tentative approval to an "affirmative action" program requiring the party to pay the expenses of minority group persons and others to the Republican National Convention. Although Bond denies it, the proposal has been described by at least one nationally syndicated columnist as resembling the McGovern system. Bond contends he is merely trying to broaden the base of the Republican party.

As Bond put it: "We are writing the rules of the game which the state parties must observe if they want to play."

Rather than admit his administration made a major mistake in permitting the Sedalia acid rock festival, Bond tells Missouri citizens that it was not necessary to try to stop the event before it started. He says the massive violation of laws on state property had to be permitted or there might have been a riot if anyone was arrested.

Rather than admit that the prison system is torn apart by permissiveness, Bond tells Missourians the prison system is better than ever.

Rather than admit that the welfare department is a mess, Bond sweeps the situation under the rug.

Rather than admit that the McGovern delegate selection system was a disaster, Bond presses for a system designed to increase liberal strength in the Republican Party.

We hope Bond will open his eyes to what is going on in his administration and correct the situation before further damage is done.

Some forty years ago, in a debate which rocked the nation at the time, the late Senator Norris pushed through his great dream of harnessing the waterways of the Tennessee Valley to produce plentiful and cheap power for the then economically deprived South. This legislation resulted in the Tennessee Valley Authority, or TVA.

But in the restless 20th Century push of American economic life four decades is almost akin to another century, and today the State of Tennessee is faced with a problem. The growth of the area, plus the more intensive use of energy in modern industry and business far outstripped the force of the waterfalls with the result that today only six per cent of the electricity in Tennessee can be derived from hydroelectric sources, with largely coal, and some gas, relied upon to keep generators spinning.

Coal and gas, as is well known, is constantly increasing in cost, resulting in higher and higher energy prices. Tennesseans are most conscious of this problem, as they well should be. For not only did TVA attract many big operations, it also developed a very comprehensive small and independent business complex.

In fact, the data of the National Federation of Independent Business indicates that although Tennessee has less than two per cent of the nation's population, it is home to 17 per cent of the nation's independent enterprises.

While there is every expectation that American ingenuity in time will find new sources of power compatible with environmental preservation, this takes time, and in the meantime business, which means in its final analysis jobs for Tennessee people, must be maintained despite soaring energy costs for a period of perhaps five years or more.

The Tennessee state government, headed by outgoing Governor Winfield Dunn started over a year ago probing into means of coping with the increasing costs of energy, headed by an internationally known expert, Carroll Kroeger, Sr.

The University of Tennessee, with a task force headed by Dr. W. T. Snyder, head of the department of engineering science and mechanics found that 70 per cent of all energy is used by industry and commerce and arrived at the conclusion that 50 per cent is not fully utilized. Working with the bigger enterprises, they found means of reducing energy costs in amounts ranging from 10 to 30 per cent by more efficient utilization and recycling of energy.

Now there is being prepared a simple, easy to follow manual to permit smaller enterprises ranging from the corner drug store up to large processors and manufacturers to make these same savings in costs without reducing activity or production. This is being done with the realization that while big industry can afford the technicians needed to more efficiently use energy, the smaller enterprises need a "do it yourself" guide.

On September fifth in Nashville, the Governor, with the cooperation of the National Federation of Independent Business is holding a one day conference to explain this new program to help small and independent business. The interest in this project at the Federal level is attracting attendance and participation by Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent, and other Federal officials.

In this era, when government often seeks to solve a problem by massive grants of money, or by confusing directives, it is refreshing to note that Tennessee has used its own state institutions to develop the means by which all business people can solve voluntary the problem of keeping their energy costs in line while maintaining full production.

EMPLOY THE HANDICAPPED

Too few people, including many employers, simply are not aware of the roadblocks in transportation, housing, education and employment that the handicapped person faces. And unless they have worked with handicapped men and women they do not realize what excellent employees they make.

Some major corporations — like General Electric, DuPont, IBM, Hughes Aircraft, AT&T and Sears Roebuck, have become convinced that a disability is not detrimental to good work. More than 5½ million handicapped people are working in the United States — but 6 million remain unemployed.

Work is the ultimate test of a person's productiveness. Don't handicap the handicapped by blindly refusing to give them a chance. A chance is all they ask!

The White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention (SAODAP) has released its "Federal Guidelines for Drug Abuse Materials," to govern the production and distribution of all films, pamphlets and other materials on drug education. The guidelines grew out of a universally - perceived need to upgrade the scientific accuracy and conceptual quality of such mass media materials.

Federally funded efforts must now conform to a series of general "message guidelines" for drug abuse programs.

Although applauded as the first effort at quality control in this field by the federal government, the guidelines have come under increasing attack from the private sector. In a recent issue of National Drug Reporter an extended "Editorial Comment" concluded that "...the guidelines are significant not for what they contain, but rather for what they leave out."

The guidelines do not guide; they do not enable individuals to make intelligent choices with a thorough understanding of the philosophical rational inherent in "good" or "bad" designations.

National Drug Reporter suggests ways to buildup the beginnings provided by the federal guidelines. A "Consumers Union" evaluation approach for drug abuse materials could be created and maintained; the sophisticated research technqiues already used in many commercial fields could be adapted to aid in to getting materials to specific audiences.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF THE LAW

A person should always be reasonably certain of where they are geographically even if in doubt spirtually or hazed up as to the city you're in — a penalty of jet transportation. Here are some laws to watch out for:

If you're in Omaha you can be fined 25 cents to $1 for each time you swear. Save your temper until you get to Council Bluffs at least.

Now in Minneapolis you can't go around impersonating Santa Claus on city streets. Of course you know you can't impersonate an FBI agent, a judge, or even a person on welfare. Now Santa Claus has been added to the list. If you happen to be a genuine Santa Claus that's different. Play it safe - just don't impersonate anyone in Minneapolis.

Now the women's lib are sure to descend on you like a ton of brick if you punch a woman in the ribs in Iowa although it is perfectly legal. An Iowa law states that women are not allowed to wear corsets and men were appointed corset inspectors and it is their duty to punch a woman in the ribs to see if she is violating the law by wearing a corset. This law is a little old but nevertheless could get a feller in the pokey for poking.

If you happen to be in Cedar Rapids and you feel the urge to kiss, first make sure you kiss only an acquaintance because it is positively against the law to kiss a stranger. This offers an interesting prognostication that might be better settled at the seat of justice, namely just at what point in a kiss does a stranger become an acquaintance. Should it be that one becomes neighborly just before the physical act, then when the act had been completed you would know each other better, it is possible that the court would rule that one had not, after all, kissed a stranger, but rather had developed a rapid friendship.

Omaha also has another law, it forbids the use of the same finger bowl by two people at the same table. If you're going to practice this vice you'd better get two tables.

And finally in the town of Ola, South Dakota (look it up on your own map or write the postoffice) it is illegal to stop to rest in the middle of the road. We hope we are not picking at straws but presumably if you were a little off center you'd escape the punishment, or perhaps if you did stop in the middle of the road for a purpose other than rest it would be seen in a different light by the authorities but the way we see it, if you stop on any kind of a road we know anything about they can pick up your remains at the office of the coroner.

'VETO-PROOF CONGRESS' IDEA LAGS

Union members are good, patriotic citizens just as are non- union workers. Both agree that a worker should have the privilege of joining a union -- or deciding which competing union to join -- or deciding not to be a member of any union.

It is not surprising that 78 percent of union members indicate in public opinion polls that use of union dues to elect political candidates should be prohibited. What surprises some union bosses and some politicians more responsible to the labor czars than to the rank- and- file workers is the showing that a full 60 per cent of union members favor and would vote for a right- to- work law.

It is the compulsion aspect of big unionism which is offensive to union member and non- union worker alike. There is no way to keep an elected politician -- whether in labor or government -- honest and on the right track if his opponents can be forced to pay for his election campaigns while opponents are effectively silenced.

Good union members know that they cannot have good jobs if their company is not progressive, efficient, competitive -- and profitable. Union bosses in the past have been able to drive individual companies into bankruptcy and to speed the decline of entire industries.

Workers -- union and non-union alike -- are showing less-than- enthusiastic support for some union bosses' campaign to elect a "veto- proof" Congress. President Ford is seen as a good man, a man of the people who will not use the veto lightly. The rank- and- file union member-- and the non-union worker who is in the majority by far -- both know that they need the protection of the Presidential veto from greedy persons besides spend-crazy politicians and hard-hearted company bosses. JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Pentagon Lords Shrug Off New Spirit of Frugality

WASHINGTON — Congressmen are grumbling that the message of inflation and frugality is not getting through to our admirals, generals and a few administration high- livers.

Legislators who drop by to chat with the brass hats at cocktail time, for instance, soon find that the military toasts being raised to belt-tightening are really 90- proof hogwash on the rocks.

The congressmen see GI servants mixing the drinks, polishing the silver, hustling the canapes, mowing the lawn outside and chauffeuring the Pentagon panjandrums' wives home from their shopping.

With such petty extravagance before their eyes, it is hard for the members to believe that the brass hats are being any more frugal with their multi- billion- dollar budget.

Actually, the hundreds of recruits assigned to such menial jobs are costing the taxpayers at least $5.4 million a year, even though Pentagon regulations bar the use of GIs as domestic servants for officers.

Lately, House appropriations chairman, George Mahon, D-Tex., who usually zips through military requests with the speed of a Polaris missile, has demanded to know why well- paid officers need GI servants.

In reply, former Army Secretary Robert Froehlke explained that he didn't want his Chief of Staff rushing home at five o'clock to mow the lawn. Growled Mahon:

At a recent party for 500 -- including then- Vice President Gerald Ford -- Marine Commandant Gen. Robert Cushman dragooned local leathernecks to wash dishes and serve liquor without pay. Two of them were minors, which would have gotten Cushman's license revoked if he were running a bar. "This may have occurred inadvertently," a spokesman explained lamely.

Like the other Joint Chiefs, Cushman is allotted five military servants for his personal convenience. At a GI salary of almost $8,000 plus benefits, this means each Chief can top the taxpayers for $40,000 a year for his house-cleaning and errands.

During interviews with the GI slaveys, my reporter Howie Kurtz found them serving as baby- sitters, pet walkers, cookie bakers for a general's children, boot- polishers, car waxers and bathroom floor scrubbers.

When his general wants to summon him, one Air Force steward complained, he rings a bell. "The name should be changed from aide to maid," the steward grumbled. Although they are supposed to get extra pay for serving at parties, most don't. And some brass hats loan their stewards around as if they were portable appliances.

Until last year, these GI valets, cabin boys and grocery shoppers were sent to a training school to pursue such topics as The Correct Waitress, Ice Carving Made Easy, Use of Domestic Appliances, and The Army Wife. Now they learn on the job.

In a still- confidential General Accounting Office report, 675 enlisted men were found serving in the pantries and pool rooms of the military mighty. Countless others also serve, it is believed, but have gone undetected.

The ethnic make- up of the GI servants smacks of racism. Two- thirds of the Marine servangs are black, the GAO found. And 98 per cent of the Navy's stewards are Filipinos.

The military, however, is simply following the royal example of the old Nixon White House, which seemed to have delusions that the "Mansion of the People" was really Versailles or the Imperial Palace.

A total of 91 Navy stewards were assigned to the White House, the GAO discovered, almost all Filipinos. Another 65 Navy aides were forced to chauffeur staffers. Nine military "housemaids" cleaned up the cigarette butts and empty glasses in the cabins at Camp David. Others did menial tasks for the President at San Clemente and Key Biscayne.

When Nixon flew to the California White House, for example, 15 or 20 stewards were rushed out to be at his beck and call. Vice President Spiro Agnew, before he was forced out of office, had two houseboys assigned to him.

Aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia, Navy aides served as janitors and waiters for partying staffers. During 1972, one steward told us, former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans used the yacht and its Navy crew to entertain GOP campaign contributors.

Other stewards wash dishes in the White House staff mess. Several times a week, they must also serve without pay as butlers at private parties in the homes of White House officials.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., outraged by such reports, brought the GAO in to look into White House misuse of GIs. The GAO privately informed Proxmire that they were stonewalled.

"We have been unable to obtain permission from the White House to examine the records or ... to interview the personnel assigned to the staff mess," Proxmire was told.

Nevertheless, the GAO watchdogs did find at least $1 million was being spent by the White House to pay their GI servants. Some, the GAO reported, were working 60 hours a week.

Footnote: President Gerald Ford is unafflicted with an Arabian potentate complex, and already there are signs that fewer GI servants will be at the White House. Meanwhile, despite the new Pentagon regulations, most generals and admirals are still using their orderlies as household servants.

Morley man sought as prison fugitive

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP) Four men charged as fugitives in an escape from the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., also have been charged in a North Carolina bank robbery, according to the FBI.

Edward J. Krupinsky special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office announced filing of the bank robbery charges Tuesday as the search continued for two of the fugitives.

The search was in its eighth day today in Great Dover swamp about 15 miles west of New Bern for convicted air pirate Richard Floyd McCoy Jr., 32, and Melvin Dale Walker, 35, of Morley, Mo.

McCoy grew up in the tiny community of Cove City, near where the search centered, and his mother and wife live there. His father, separated from his mother, lives in Raleigh.

The other two men, Larry LeRoy Bagley, 36, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Joseph William Havel, 60, of Philadelphia, are in custody in New Bern.

The four escaped from the Lewisburg prison Aug. 10 and have been charged in the Aug. 13 robbery of a Bank of North Carolina branch in Pollocksville, about 15 miles southeast of Cove City.

Bagley and Havel were captured after an exchange of gunfire with a Highway Patrol helicopter after it swooped low to check a car on a logging road. The other two men escaped into the swamp.

Originality feature of Woodshed items

If you're looking for originality and craftsmanship in a gift or a decoration for your home, The Woodshed, 100 Broadway Ave., offers a variety of handmade items for sale.

All of the wood items in the store, the main items sold, are made by her brother-in-law, Cart Wood of Little Rock, Ark. Other items, such as quilts and handicrafts, are made by local residents and sold on consignment.

Mrs. Rowland decided to open the store after she brought some items made by Wood to Sikeston and a number of people wanted to buy them.

She said she started selling only the wooden items, then expanded her line to include other handicrafts. Items sold include shelves, wooden initials, poutin' benches, quilts and some antique items.

Wood will make items to order, if the customer leaves instructions telling what he wants, Mrs. Rowland said.

Sales tax bulletin warns of legislative changes

The department has about 86,000 sales tax accounts.

Sales and income tax fraud now are felonies punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 and imprisonment of up to five years.

"This change in the law coupled with the increasing effectiveness of our special investigation bureau is designed to catch and punish the tax evader in the manner which he deserves," Spradling said. "These people have had a free ride for a long time, but we now have the tools to crack down."

The second major change is a new law regarding the bonding of businesses responsible for paying sales taxes.

All new businesses and all delinquent accounts as of Jan. 1, 1975, will be required to furnish a bond to the Revenue Department to secure payment of at least three months' sales tax liability.

"This change is designed to help solve our other major administration problem; that is, a high rate of deliquency," Spradling said.

"All accounts delinquent Jan. 1, 1975 and thereafter will be required to post a bond," he said. "Failure to do so will cause cancellation of the sales tax license and steps will be taken to see that the business is forced to close down.

"I therefore strongly urge that all sales tax accounts remit any delinquencies prior to January 1975. We simply will not allow them to stay in business and build up large and larger debts to the state of Missouri."

Cost of living up last month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose eight-tenths of a per cent in July despite an easing in the increase in food prices, the government said today.

The July report marked only the second time this year the monthly increase in the government's Consumer Price Index has been less than 1 per cent.

The July increase would amount to an annual rate of inflation of 9.6 per cent, still ahead of last year's 8.8 per cent inflation rate.

Prices as of July 31 were 11.8 per cent higher than in July 1973, the government said. That is the biggest 12-month jumped since the year ending September 1947, when the increase was 12.6 per cent.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said, however, workers managed to gain ground last month in their race with inflation.

Spendable earnings, after taking account for inflation, moved up by two-tenths of 1 per cent.

By Erma Bombeck

For years, the Ladies Home Journal has run a series called, "Can This Marriage Be Saved?"

My husband says it sounds like they're refrigerating a leftover, but I love the civilized way in which married people get a chance to express themselves without interruption from one another. So often, one member of the couple dominates the dialogue, thus denying the other mate the chance to speak. It's so healthy in a marriage to talk it out.

As an example of how it works, I'll relate a little situation that placed our marriage in jeopardy a few years ago . . . the Alarm Clock Incident.

"Basically, I'm a light sleeper. I've had to be. Were it not for me, our babies would have floated out of the crib in the mornings. Dogs would have knocked our garbage cans over and made a mess. And the milk would have frozen into quart milk bars outside of our door.

"However, my husband and I planned a trip and he said, 'I'd better set the alarm. With our luck, you'll sack out and we'll miss the plane.'

"Being a sensible person, I agreed to this. We would set the alarm for six and still have plenty of time to make the plane.

"No sooner had my head hit the pillow than the alarm went off in my ear. I stumbled out of bed, half-crazed for sleep, went into the bathroom and began brushing my teeth. The lump in my husband's bed did not move a muscle. 'Aren't you going to get up?' I asked.

"Are you crazy? It's only 4:30," he said.

"But why did you set the alarm for 4:30?"

"I have to wake up slow," he said.

"I sunk under the covers and stared wide- eyed at the ceiling until the alarm blasted me out of my trance. He reached over, smacked the alarm and said, 'Bug off!'

"It was 5 a.m. 'Are you some kind of a nut?' I shouted. 'No,' he said, 'I just wanted to be shoved around by an alarm clock. I'll get up when I'm ready to get up.'

"The snooze alarm went off at 5:15, 5:30 and 5:45. By this time my eyes felt like two burnt holes in a mattress. At six when the alarm went off again, my husband listened to its clang until it ran down. Then he grabbed it, stuffed it in a drawer and said, 'Don't call me. I'll call you!'

"When I was sure he was awake, I told him as gently as possible that I was going to put him in a home. We began to argue. We argued until we missed our flight. But I forgave and forgot."

Miss Glastetter's parents are Mrs. Sylvia M. Glastetter of Chaffee and the late Theon Glastetter.

Mrs. Jones, a 1972 graduate of Southeast Missouri State University, received a bachelor of science degree in education. She is employed by the Social Security Administration in Shawnee Mission, Kan.

Jones, also a 1972 graduate of SeMo State, is employed by the Social Security Administration at Ottawa, Kan.

Girl wants to ditch crying boyfriend

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a 17 -year -old boy who cries every time he gets into an argument with his girl and he sees he is losing?

I'd really like to ditch this dude but whenever I mention splitting, he starts to bawl. My knees turn to rubber and my heart melts. The last time I told him I wanted to stop seeing him, he buried his face in his handkerchief, cried until it was sopping wet and then announced that the doctor had just told him he had a brain tumor and probably wouldn't live another year. I couldn't lop him off after that. Well, two days later he said the doctor had misread the X -rays and everything is O.K.

I don't want to get in any deeper with this crybaby. As it is, every guy in school thinks I'm his private property and I haven't been asked out in a year. Can you help? --Madeline

Dear Mad: Put on a raincoat and hip boots. Tell Mr. Great Lakes that you are not going out with him again and the decision is final. Let him float out of the room if necessary, and don't let him cry his way back or you'll be stuck indefinitely.

Dear Ann Landers: May a husband say a word about how it is to look at a wife in the morning, before she has had a chance to put on the extras and get glamorous?

I love my wife and have for many years. We are both 47. We decided long ago that early morning is not the best time for looking or communication. Without putting it into words we agreed that morning is the time to look at the kids instead of each other. The teen -agers are a pleasure to behold, eyes bright and hair shining. The younger ones absolutely sparkle! I eat my eggs and slurp down my coffee. My wife and I exchange a few inaudible sentences. I stumble off to work and she struggles into gear for the day.

At night when I come,home, the little woman looks mighty good to me and we get along great. Besides, looking, whether it's mornign or night, isn't the whole game --as any blind may well tell you. --From Chicago

Dear Chic: Let's hear it for the couple who has learned to live together. Sometimes the highest level of communication is no communication at all.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago you printed a letter from a night -oriented person who had a difficult time in his dorm because he enjoyed doing his school work (or his thing) late at night and arranged his schedule so he could sleep in the morning. But "crack - of -dawners" made it impossible for him to sleep. Will you please give equal time to a member of the "Daylight Forces"?

Every campus has an obnoxious group that operates after midnight. This includes smoking pot (which creates a peculiarly disgusting odor), entertaining the boy (or gir) friend overnight at the inconveience and embarrassment of their roommates, indulging in loud drinking parties with the stereo going full blast, and going out and leaving pets in a room to howl disconsolately for hours.

The worst of it is that the administration refuses to do anything about it. So please don't compound the felony by coming out in favor of a selfish group of spoiled brats who have had things their own way too long. College begins in a few weeks. Be fair. --Revenging Angel

Dear Angel: I can't believe the administration would ignore such complaints. Go -en masse --raise the roof, and you'll get results.

A no -nonsense approach on how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage --What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago Illinois 60654, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self -addressed envelope.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 34 and have had a complete hysterectomy. I was told a woman could not live without estrogen, and yet I know several women who have had the same operation who have gotten along without taking shots or pills. A couple of them were in their 20s. They said the only thing was they were thrown into the change of life early. Could you please explain the difference to me as I am confused, and I don't have a doctor anymore as our doctor left the area.

I was taking estrogen shots and pills, but I am taking nothing now. If I can live without estrogen I would rather. My doctor never said I had to take it at all in the first place. It was my mother who says I need it.

DEAR READER — First, just having a complete hysterectomy does not mean that there will be any loss of estrogen production at all. Estrogen is produced by the ovaries, and these may be left in place when a complete hysterectomy is done. And, usually they will be left in unless there is some disease of them that requires their removal. The difference between whether the ovaries were taken out or left in is one factor in the different responses women have to this type of surgery.

If the ovaries are taken out then a young woman will have a premature menopause. However, estrogen is also manufactured by the adrenal gland. Deciding whether any woman, with or without an operation, needs estrogen is dependent upon the results of a medical examination. Some women go through the menopause with no problems and never take estrogen. In others it is very useful in controlling symptoms and preventing changes.

In any case, you do not die because your body is not producing a large amount of estrogen. My advice would be to find a doctor and get a good examination to find out what you need, not what your mother needed or your girl friends needed. Only then you can know if YOU really need any additional female hormone or not. For more information write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019, and ask for the booklet on menopause. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can being overweight cause pain in the chest?

DEAR READER — Yes. It contributes to causing a hernia of part of the stomach through the normal, but enlarged, hole in the diaphragm. This is quite a common problem in our society in middle aged and older people.

The hernia causes a leak of normal acid digestive juices into the esophagus. This irritates the lower esophagus and causes a burning pain at the lower end of the breastbone. It can also cause the esophagus to go into spasm, creating pain in the middle of the chest, not unlike a heart attack.

Then obesity contributes to heart disease, which leads to chest pain. It also contributes to the problem of arthritis.

Dr. Lamb welcomes questions from his readers, but because of the volume of mail he cannot answer personally. Questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

What's the law?

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

When Bubbles married Big Mike, she discovered that marriage was a bag of surprises. The biggest surprise was Big Mike. Instead of being a ro -busty male, "he" turned out to be a no -busty female.

Charging fraud, Bubbles stormed out of the bridal suite and demanded an immediate annulment. Big Mike, in turn, demanded a divorce on the grounds of abandonment.

"When a female tricks another woman into marrying her," insisted Bubbles in court, "the deceived female has every reason to leave. And, obviously, Mike was a gal because he didn't have the traditional masculine apparatus to be considered a guy."

"That's not necessarily so," responded a medical report in Mike's behalf. 'The fact is, Mike's transsexual. In other words, he's actually a male entrapped in a female body."

"What's more," added Mike, "the Supreme Court in this state recognized my masculinity by permitting me to change my name just a short time ago from Michelle to Mike. Therefore, I'm entitled to a divorce as requested because Bubbles deserted me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Mike to divorce his perplexed bride on the grounds of abandonment?

This is how the jduge ruled: NO! The judge held that assuming that Mike was a male entrapped in the body of a female as urged, the record (including the change of name proceeding) does not show that the entrapped male had sufficiently escaped to enable Mike to perform the male funcions required in a marriage.

And, concluded the judge, since a marriage is and always has been a contract between an woman and a man, no valid marriage existed between Bubbles and Mike as to entitle Mike to bring an action for a divorce.

Highway use tax return must be filed soon

ST. LOUIS — Owners of large trucks, truck tractors or buses in Missouri are required to file a federal highway use tax return, Form 2290, by Aug. 31.

"The tax generally applies to single- unit trucks weighing 13,000 pounds or more, to truck tractors weighing 5,500 pounds or more, to trucks of 9,000 or more pounds equipped for use in combinations, and to buses with a gross weight of more than 26,000 pounds," said Richard C. Voskuil, IRS district director.

Revenue from the highway use tax program assists states in financing the interstate highway system, but the tax is imposed on these vehicles using any public highways, city streets, state roads and interstate roadways.

"The tax year for the highway use tax begins July 1 and runs through the following June 30. For vehicles placed in service after July, Form 2290 must be filed with the IRS service center serving the vehicle owners by the last day of the month following the month a vehicle is used on a public highway for the first time," Voskuil added.

Further information on the proper filing of the federal highway use tax returns are available at the Missouri IRS district office. Ask for IRS Publication 349, "Federal Highway Use Tax".

Dudley man's death ruled accidental

POPLAR BLUFF -- Accidental drowning was ruled the cause of death of Charles Glenn Griffin, 21, of Dudley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glendell William Griffin.

Griffin has been fishing in the St. Francis River near Fisk with two companions Saturday. The two left Griffin in the evening and reported him missing Sunday afternoon, according to a sheriff's department report.

Recovery operations began Sunday evening but the body was not located . Several observers spotted Griffin's body floating in the river Monday morning near the area where he was presumed to have drowned.

The body was recovered and taken to Doctors Hospital for an autopsy. Death occurred Saturday evening, according to the report of Coroner Larry Cotrell.

Griffin was born in Dexter on March 21, 1953. He attended Dexter and Dudley schools and lived in Stoddard County all of his life. He was a farm laborer and had served in the Air Force.

Park system holding its own

Camping attendance rose 4 per cent last month compared with July of last year, James L. Wilson, state director of natural resources, said Friday.

There were 215,340 overnight campers in the 34 state parks where camping is allowed, compared with 207,987 for July of 1973.

Total state park attendance was off 3 per cent for July, Wilson said.

Year-to-date figures show total camping attendance from Jan. 1 through July 31 was 526,385, down 1 per cent from 534,196 for the same period last year. Total park attendance is down 8 per cent for the year, from 6,996,474 a year ago to 6,435,375 this year.

World news in brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overwhelming praise except from some longstanding Republican foes virtually guarantees Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation by Congress as vice president. The question is how soon. Chairmen of both House and Senate confirmation committees declined to set any target date, and House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter J. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., did not rule out confirmation after the November elections.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to protect workers' pension rights seems assured of early enactment by Congress. The House passed the bill with only two dissenting votes and the measure is scheduled for a vote today in the Senate. Senate backers say they know of no opposition to the bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a victory for President Ford, the House has voted to cut a $20 billion mass transit bill down to the $11 billion he requested. The House sent the bill to the Senate Tuesday after the funding authorization was reduced by a 257-125 vote. The bill would authorize the first federal operating subsidies to hardpinched mass transit systems, as well as money for buying new equipment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford planned to sign today a $25 billion education bill extending Great Society school aid programs and imposing new busing curbs. In what was viewed as a peace-making gesture, major education organizations were invited to witness the bill signing. Many had battled with former President Nixon over his not infrequent vetoes of education money bills.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to re-examine all publicly financed items installed in Richard M. Nixon's Florida and California homes with an eye to recovering what it profitably can, according to the head of the General Services Administration. Arthur F. Sampson said his agency will "look at every item" installed while Nixon was President, and then decide what should be done with them now.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has pledged not to seek wage-price controls, saying recent experience makes it clear that compulsory controls would be most undesirable. Ford's statement came as Congress completed action on his request to re-establish a wage and price monitoring agency.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten oil companies have agreed to repay some $103.7 million in overcharges to their customers. The Federal Energy Administration also reported that four other oil companies have been notified they are suspected of overcharges totaling $90.7 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — The profits of sugar refiners have jumped to record levels while the price of sugar in the supermarket has soared in a year from 79 cents to $2 for a five-pound bag. Refiners say crop failures in recent years have stimulated world bidding for the scarce commodity. And the United States, which imports more than one half of its sugar from Latin America, the Philippines and other foreign sources, is in the competition. They also say the tight supply situation has given them the opportunity to raise their profit margins on the once-abundant but low-profit item.

HARTS, W. Va. (AP) — Billy Duty has been staying close to home during the miners' weeklong memorial vacation, enjoying life with Iva Jean and the kids. "I've been reading in the Logan Banner what the coal operators are saying," he said Tuesday as he sat in his living room just over the mountain from Little Harts Creek. "This week is giving those operators a taste of what might happen later on." In addition to being a miner at Bethlehem's No. 46, Duty also is president of United Mine Workers Local 656 and chairman of his mine safety committee. "Most of the men don't want the safety job," he said, running a hand through his curly red hair and grinning. "They're afraid the company will be mad, but I don't care. The coal companies don't give a damn if I get killed under that mountain. They'll just drive over my body to get at that coal."

Deason was elected in April to a two-year term.

"I feel that I have been shunned, rejected and condemned by those that I have devoted much time and finances to and for, and frequently prevented from performing assigned duties when unauthorized persons are called in to perform my work," Deason said. "During the past five months, I have found the people of the city to be so widely split in viewpoints that I now believe no one person can assume a 'middle of the road' attitude in order to bridge this gap."

Deason is a school teacher in the Parma system and is a retired serviceman. He came to Parma from Tennessee in 1969.

Mayor Randall Ramsey said he would check with the city attorney to see what steps should be taken to fill his position on the four-man board.

A POSITIVE IMAGE

We readily admit that in our performance of a funeral service, we are trying to create a positive "image" which people will remember. We know that if each member of our staff is meticulously attired, if our premises are immaculate, and if our spotless motor coaches function smoothly, this image will have no discordant notes. Then the spiritual values inherent in the service will stand forth, because the physical setting contains no distracting elements.

Cardinals fail to hold lead

"You might say I'm hitting .269 now?" asked Aaron Tuesday night after his two singles and a double helped the Atlanta Braves to an 8-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a National League baseball game.

"Well, at least that's more than I weigh," said the home run king.

Clyde King, the Braves' manager, admired Aaron's performance but was at something of a loss for words.

"Well, what can you say about him, he's just unbelievable," said King.

Marty Perez also collected three hits for Atlanta and Darrell Evans and Leo Foster had two each.

"Now it seems like everybody wants to get into the act," said King. "Marty Perez is as hot as a firecracker. Leo Foster came in tonight and did a great job.

"And Evans is the only one I really want to talk about. He's starting to come around. Even when he wasn't hitting like we all know he's capable of, he kept up the good fielding and base running."

One of Evans' hits was a two-run homer which helped the Braves to a four-run second inning. His other safety was a triple.

The victory was Atlanta's ninth in the past 11 games and second straight over the East Division-leading Cardinals.

St. Louis got off to a two-run lead in the first with singles by Ted Sizemore and Reggie Smith and Joe Torre's double.

Foster led off the Braves' second with a single and later scored when Mike Tyson threw wildly to second. Vic Correll, who also had singled, scored when Garr hit into a double play. Perez then singled and Evans unloaded his 15th homer of the season.

Ken Reitz and Mike Tyson each singled in a Cardinal run in the sixth and Bake McBride drove in one in the seventh.

SEMSU opens at Delta St.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri State University Indians are the conference champs now but the Springfield Bears are the favorites to take the conference crown away from the Indians this season.

"When you're the defending champion everybody's after you," said coach Lohr in his first year as head coach. "But, we figure we'll have a respectable team in 1974."

The Indians expect to have two quarterbacks to run the team this season. "We haven't had this situation here in a long while," said Lohr, who served under Tom Thrower for five years.

After the loss of Lance Brune, quarterback was an area of concern for coach Lohr. Another position which Lohr must be concerned with is at tackle where David Means left vacant. Means has been starting for the Buffalo Bills in preseason practice.

The Indians have a good crop of junior college transfers which are expected to help. Anthony Wallace in the back field is a speedster along with Bob Everage and Randy Hoerman.

The Indians are going with the "Houston Veer" offense this season. "This is a high risk type of offense," said coach Lohr. "But, it also gives you more options offensively.

Weiser is familiar with the offense having played it at Fort Scott.

Meet the Dogs

Sikeston high school students, parents and members of the press will get to meet and take pictures of the 1974 SHS Bulldog football team Friday night at Public School Stadium when the school hosts its annual Parent - Press Picture evening.

Players will report for equipment checkout at 5 p.m. and picture taking will follow around 6 p.m., which will be followed by an open house in the Dog House for all present. Refreshments will be served.

Indians look toward winning season

Coach Arment noted that some of these boys were on the basketball team last year which won the regional tournament and played on the summer baseball team that won the league title and he thinks they will continue to win on the gridiron this fall.

Coach Arment doesn't make any predictions but hinted that this could be the season for a winner.

One of the biggest pluses for the Tribe coaching staff is the large crop of seniors. "We've lacked the leadership and experience of upperclassmen in the past," noted Arment but this year we have 20 seniors on the roster and we plan to make up the bulk of our squad with them."

Junior Robert Roundtree will be making a strong bid for the starting quarterback position. Robert was an outstanding basketball player as well. "Our aerial attack should be much stronger this season," commented coach Arment. The Indians hope to have a stronger running attack this season. Last year they were forced to go to the air much more than they liked to.

"With a good backfield we should be able to go either way more effectively," the coach said.

Terry Shands will be switched from end to fullback this season and should help the running game considerably.

Coach Arment expects Poplar Bluff to be the toughest team in the conference this season and expects Paragould, Ark. to be the toughest test on the schedule.

Hayti returns 15 starters

HAYTI — Head football coach Jerry Cecil and assistant Virgil Martin will be starting their sixth season as the Indians mentors.

The Indians finished in a tie for second place in the Southern Division of the Souhteast Missouri football conference with Caruthersville with a 6-3 record behind Dexter.

Coach Cecil will have seven offensive starters and eight defensive starters to build his team around in 1974. He will also have three of the four starters frm 1973 back as well.

With breakway running back Eddie Martin in the lineup Hayti could be very explosive offensively. Along with speedster Martin there will be veteran Danny White and quarterback Jimmy Morgan. The fourth starter will be Patrick Thomas.

John Mark Chism, a 5-11, 180 pound junior, was switched from guard to center and played the last seven games at center. Back on the line will be 220 pound Charles Raymond and 185 pound Terry Ray.

To replace his starting ends that graduated coach Cecil will have to use David Ledbetter and Joe Taylor. The tight end will probably be 190 pound Alex Clinton.

Letters to the Editor

August 1, 1974

Dear Doctor,

Now I know what Patrick Henry meant when he said, 'Give me liberty or give me death.' I am sick and tired of being enslaved to a hostile bureaucracy. This is either our country with a good constitution to govern it or we are all slaves of the bureaucracy. We had better decide now.

You can not do a single thing but what some ass from the bureaucracy sticks his incompetent nose into it. It extends from the highest to the lowest of American life. Perhaps the kids are right. The 'establishment' is making all our lives miserable. Their answer is revolution. My answer is that we have a superior document in the constitution. Let's start living by it even if we have to hit a few people over the head with two- by- fours.

Impeach Nixon? Why? He is just a damn crook like most of us are becoming. Why blame him for our own shortcomings? Friends, I have had enough. Probably we had better see if America can work as America was designed. It was a republic — not a democracy — and our constitution built the most powerful nation on earth. Let's see whether the United States of America is really a republic or are we all slaves to the bureaucracy. I, for one, would as soon be dead as to lick the back side of an arrogant bureaucracy.

Probably right now you should read the constitution. It might help, also, if members of the supreme court read it. By the way, see if you can find one place where it mentions that we are a democracy which means everybody, no matter how ignorant, can participate in running our country. It is a republic. This implies that only people with a stake in America can run it. That, I rather like.

Let's look at one or two parts of the constitution. It very clearly defines what the government should do and very definitely says that all other functions shall be up to the states. Now let's take the biggest department in federal government. That is The Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Not one damn word is said in the constitution about health, education or welfare. Those functions are left to the fifty states. Again, check it and see. If we are governed by the constitution, then the first thing to do would be to scrap The Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

This is so simply written that a ten- year- old could interpret it. Yet, we have Supreme Court Justices who just can't read and Congressmen who just can't read and an Executive Department that just can't read. It is time to quit, fellows. I don't mean to revolt. I mean to throw a bunch of the silly bastards out of here — say about three to five million.

Let's take the matter of money, our basis of exchange: The constitution makes it quite clear that we shall never debase our money. Funny, people seem not to be familiar with the word debase, even congress and the supreme court. It means to never issue a dollar bill that we haven't a dollar's worth of gold, silver or other precious material in the treasury to back it. This seems logical to me. To do anything else is absolutely forbidden by the constitution.

So look in your wallet and you haven't got one bit of money that is backed. You have federal reserve notes. Oh, boy. This is lovely for the bureaucrats for they can issue federal reserve notes to meet almost any expense. They very frequently do.

We could go on for many a paragraph. What I am really saying, I am sick of being a slave of the bureaucrats and I am sick of being a slave with the absolute assurance that my grandchildren will pay through the nose for the decisions based on what the bureaucrats think. That is, of course, if they think at all. Probably not.

Gentlemen, it is time to stop. Either this is the Republic of the United States of America and we can fire the bureaucrats by the millions or the bureaucrats have us all enslaved. I think we had better find out now.

Do you agree?

You know, everytime I get my tail waving about something, I find there is absolutely no use putting a medical item in because the doctors won't read it. If you agree with me, show the item above to your local newspaper publisher and tell him he is perfectly free to reprint it in its entirety. He is not welcome to reprint a paragraph or two. Do put a credit line in for me and give my address. I would like to see how many people think as I do.

Dear Sir:

Jack Anderson's recent column "Natural Gas Heating Costs on the Rise" unfortunately contributes to public misunderstanding of the deep- seated causes of our nation's energy problems by attempting to cast the oil industry in the role of villain.

Few enjoy Mr. Anderson's special status of access to government documents, so we aren't in a position to comment on the so- called "secret report" of the Senate Commerce Committee staff. If, in fact, the report says the oil companies "succeeded in tripling the price for oil in little over a year," it must have been written by a modern- day Rip Van Winkle who surely must have been asleep during the Arab embargo and who is completely oblivious to the fact that the OPEC nations have quadrupled their price for oil over the past year.

Mr. Anderson and the "secret report" make much of the downturn in the success ratio of exploratory drilling operations for natural gas in the Louisiana offshore area. Let's look at the facts:

(1) In 1972, the total number of exploratory wells drilled in the area was 207. In 1973, the total was 208. These totals are considerably higher (by approximately 40 per cent) than the number of exploratory wells drilled in 1969 (147 wells) and 1970 (140 wells). Clearly, there was no lack of drilling activity on the part of the industry.

(2) When Mr. Anderson told his readers "offshore drilling was producing as high as 24.2 per cent success in other parts of the country," he failed to mention that he was really talking about offshore Texas. Examination of the data shows that offshore Louisiana, contrary to the impression left by Mr. Anderson, historically has not enjoyed the success in bringing in gas wells that offshore Texas has. And this is not a one- year or two- year phenomenon. From 1969 to 1973, 969 exploratory wells were drilled in Louisiana waters, with only 55 gas wells coming in. During the same period, 305 exploratory wells were drilled in Texas waters, with 52 gas wells resulting. In every one of the five years, offshore Louisiana had a lower ratio of success than offshore Texas.

(3) Drilling in offshore Louisiana waters is now taking place in the frontier areas where there is a higher degree of uncertainty and a greater likelihood of failure. The fewer wells drilled in offshore Texas waters were drilled on the more likely prospects where a greater success ratio would normally be expected.

(4) Mr. Anderson makes much of the fact that the singular lack of success occurred in areas listed as extremely promising by geologists. Anyone who knows anything about the petroleum business knows a geologist's report isn't a magic wand! The only way to find oil or gas is to drill for it, and most of the time -- particularly in wildcat drilling -- you come up empty-handed.

(5) Gas producers have not been sitting on their recent discoveries. According to a recent study done by the Natural Gas Supply Committee, the great bulk of the "shut-in" gas wells in the areas off the Texas and Louisiana coasts were committed to contract as of January 1, 1974. According to a study by the Federal Power Commission of the "producible shut-in" federal leases in offshore Texas and Louisiana, as of January, 1974, the "proved" reserves attributable to such leases and not committed to contract amounted to approximately seven- tenths of one per cent of the nation's total proved natural gas reserves. The primary reason for "producible shut-in" leases not committed to contract is that these leases, although containing volumes of gas reserves which could be produced, do not have sufficient reserves to justify the large investments by pipeline companies necessary to extend the pipe lines and to build the necessary facilities to connect these leases. Some of the leases in the "producible shut-in" category were shut- in because a contract of sale had not been executed, although contract negotiations were going on.

The cheapest isn't always your "best buy." This is especially true in plumbing fixtures, faucets, shower heads, piping, valves and drains, the Plumbing- Heating- Cooling Information Bureau says.

The cheapest fixtures are usually undersized and lose their luster in short order. Cheap fauets, shower heads, drains and valves, especially the imported kind, don't stand up under continuous use. They often break down within the 1st year and must be replaced, whereas quality products costing only a little more will last up to 15 years or more, and in some cases even as long as the building.

And when it comes to piping behind the wall or under the floor, quality is even more important, because to replace it calls for breaking through the wall or floor, a messy and expensive job.

The cost of replacing cheap fixtures and other plumbing is only part of the frustration. Undersized fixtures are a source of inconvenience and irritation.

Risco woman 4th to be charged in drug probe

NEW MADRID — Terrie Wallace of Risco was arraigned Tuesday in Magistrate Court on a felony charge of disposal of a controlled substance by giving away amphetamine without a license on July 9.

Mrs. Wallace has been released under $1,000 bond and is to re- appear Sept. 4 for a preliminary hearing which she requested.

She is the fourth person to be charged with drug violations upon information contained in a report to New Madrid County Prosecuting Attorney Hal E. Hunter Jr. The report was filed by state highway patrol undercover narcotic agents who had been working in the Malden-Risco areas for several weeks.

James Allan Foley, his wife, Ronna Gail Foley and her sister, Terry Lee Dubois were charged with drug violations following a raid at the Foley home in Risco early Saturday morning. Mrs. Foley was released from custody Monday after posting $2,000 bond.

Junior Lynn White and LaVern White of Savannah, Tenn. Route One, charged with the Aug. 4 burglary and larceny of a trailer home in the Scrub Ridge community near Portageville owned by Jean Carroll requested a preliminary hearing on the charges and were placed under $500 bonds each.

The Whites, who voluntarily agreed to return to New Madrid County from Tennessee, are accused, along with Boyd White of Portageville Route One, of breaking, entering and stealing a 12- gauge shotgun, a jar of pennies valued at $4, two portable radios and shotguns shells valued together at $100.

Robert Russell Mayo was fined $125 on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was given a six- months suspended jail sentence, placed on probation for one year and his driver's license was suspended for one year.

Bobby Gene Fincher drew a $115 fine and the same punishment when he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Fincher was also fined $20 on a charge of operating a vehicle with expired truck license.

Charged with careless and imprudent driving, Robert Anthony Kosky and Leonard Holyfield each paid $40 fines; and Roger Neil Golightly and Deborah Ellen Cummins each paid $25 fines.

Herman Willoughby was ordered to pay $150 per month beginning Sept. 1 for the support of three children and was assessed $25 court costs on a non- support charge.

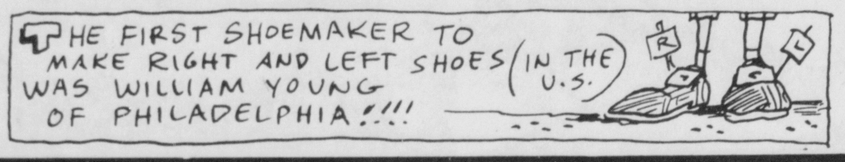
Fined on speeding charges were Joe William Ray and Ronald Gene Ballard, $50 each; Bobby Gene Hayes, $47; Michael Edward Chambliss, $39; Jack Arthur Miller and Linda Jo Spitzmiller, $30 each; Raymond Gene Sanders and Dolan Ray Uthoff, $26 each; Paul Russell Allen, $21; and Ray Eugene Harris Jr., $20.



Farm Bureau Queen

New Madrid County Farm Bureau queen, center, is Janet Hulshof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hulshof of Portageville. Sherri Hillis, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hillis of Lilbourn, was named first alternate, and Linda Sullenger, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Sullenger of New Madrid, was selected second alternate.

Miss Hulshof crowned

RISCO — The 1974-75 New Madrid County Farm Bureau queen was crowned Friday night following the annual dinner and business meeting in the Risco High School cafetorium.

Miss Janet Hulshof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hulshof of Portageville, was crowned queen by the retiring queen, Miss Cindi Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole of East Prairie.

First alternate to the queen was Miss Herri Hillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hillis of Lilbourn, and Miss Linda Sullenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Sullenger of New Madrid, was chosen second alternate.

Cuz Morelan, a Portageville radio personality, served as master of ceremonies for the event. Judges were Mrs. Patti Simmons of rural Parma, Mrs. Linda Riley of rural Bernie, Phillip Winters of Sikeston and Steve McElrath of Kennett, a Farm Bureau agent.

Prior to the contest, Walter Landers introduced the following former Farm Bureau queens, who were special guests: 1966 queen, Charlotte Eftink Kincton of Portageville; 1967 queen, Regina Landers Cummins of rural Malden; 1968 queen, Glenda Schallert Parker of Dyersburg, Tenn.; 1969 queen, Amonda Smith of Portageville; 1970 queen, Vera Porter Strickland of New Madrid; 1971 queen, Pamela Landers Malone of Memphis, Tenn.; and 1973 queen, Cindi Cole of East Prairie.

Four former queens were located but unable to attend. They were 1960 queen, Marty Thompson Peck of Nashville, Tenn.; 1961 queen, Berta McWaters Schuerenburg of Sikeston; 1965 queen, Paulette Crumley Combs of Forsyth; and 1972 queen, Christi Curtis of Matthews.

Mrs. Paul Cummins Jr. of Malden Route One was planner and coordinator of queen contest.

Entertainment was presented by soloist Chris Landers and pianist Vanessa Gibbs, who presented "Buttons and Bows", "If You Love Me" and "Why Me?"

Peter Myers, Farm Bureau president, conducted the business session and served as master of ceremonies for the remainder of the meeting, during which resolutions were reviewed and approved.

Myers was re- elected president, Walter Landers was named vice president and Dub Widner treasurer.

A LEGAL QUESTION

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—The British Columbia Medical Association has endorsed a report from its drug habituation committee opposing a suggestion that doctors be responsible for committing heroin users to compulsory treatment. The committee said it favors compulsory treatment, but under "a legal procedure which would provide the defendant with adequate safeguards and protect the physician from exposure to criminal threat."

Demo midterm convention plans continue

The two-day meeting of the Charter Commission ended abruptly Sunday afternoon when some 50 liberals bolted, leaving the commission without the necessary quorum for action. The walkout was led by California Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr.

"Let's get this walkout in perspective," Strauss said Monday during a break in a meeting of the arrangements committee which is preparing for the mid-term convention.

"Willie Brown came here on Friday—remember that—and he told the press then he'd be walking out. He felt he had to do something. He's in political trouble in his own state."

Brown had thrown his support to former California Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti in the Democratic gubernatorial campaign. Moretti lost the nomination June 4 to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Brown signaled for the walkout when Doris Hardesty, a recent Strauss appointee from Rockville, Md., proposed a change in an article concerning delegate selection for national conventions.

Baptist school in St. Louis to close down

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Trustees of Missouri Baptist College have announced the closing of the St. Louis County school because of financial troubles.

Rev. Dwayne Lasseter, board of trustees secretary, said Saturday it was impractical to continue operating because of the projected loss of over $200,000 for the coming year. He said efforts failed to refinance the college's debts and the Missouri Baptist Convention had denied a request for an interim loan.

Missouri Baptist had been scheduled to open Sept. 4. Fees and tuition will be refunded to students who have registered for the fall term, Rev. Lasseter said.

The college opened in 1968 with a two-year academic program and later changed to a four-year college.

About 300 students were expected for the fall term.

Tornado season expected to be most devastating

WASHINGTON — The 1974 tornado season is expected to be one of the most devastating in our nation's history, the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has announced.

Allen Pearson, director of NOAA's National Severe Storms Forecast Center said: "We will probably have fewer tornadoes this year then in 1973, but through July we have had more maxi tornadoes -- the ones that kill -- then in any previous year."

Pearson said that, so far in 1974, there have been more strong, wide and long- lasting tornadoes than ever before. "It's maxi tornadoes such as these that really worry us," Pearson added. "In an average year two out of 10 of all tornadoes for the country are maxis. About 25 tornadoes account for most of the deaths. We did a study of fatalities and found that one per cent of the tornadoes produced 80 per cent of the deaths."

Pearson describes the maxi -- or super -- tornado as one that may be as much as a mile and a half wide, and up to 200 miles long. But more typically they are about a quarter of a mile wide and stay on the ground for about 25 miles. These violent storms live as long as three hours and have rotational winds as high as 300 miles an hour.

"Fortunately we do our very best job of forecasting this type of storm. And the local National Weather Service office certainly does its very best job of warning on these big tornadoes." he said.

In 1973, a new all-time record for the number of tornadoes was set. Of the 1,109 reported, 34 were killer tornadoes. There were 87 deaths.

Through July 1974, 725 tornadoes have been reported and the NSSFC estimates that 105 were maxis, with 65 of those causing one or more deaths.

The largest outbreak in 1974 occurred on April 3-4. More than 100 tornadoes struck in 14 states over a 12-hour period. Pearson says that 55 of these could be classified as super tornadoes. More than 300 people died during this outbreak.

Another large outbreak occurred two months later, on June 8, and caused widespread destruction in Oklahoma.

Two Oklahoma cities were particularly hard hit -- Drumright, a community of about 4,000 situated 40 miles west southwest of Tulsa, and Tulsa itself -- the worst tornadoes in their history. Thirteen people were killed in or near Drumright, and damage was estimated at $3.5 million when the tornado struck at 5 p.m. Two hours hater Tulsa was hit, causing damage estimated at more than $20 million. One death was reported in Tulsa.

The low death toll was attributed to advanced perparedness, public awareness and swift response to timely warnings by civil preparedness agencies, the news media, amateur radio organizations, police and fire departments and several individuals in both cities.

Dr. George P. Cressman, director of the National Weather Service, joined the cities of Tulsa and Drumright Aug. 15, at special ceremonies honoring those institutions and persons whose actions were instrumental in keeping the death toll down.

In presenting the Public Service Award -- the National Weather Service's highest honor -- Dr. Cressman said:

"The state of readiness and fine preparedness action June 8 were outstanding -- a textbook performance. There is little doubt that hundreds of lives were saved by these actions -- actions that really began months and, in some cases, years ago with careful planning and organization. The payoff came on June 8."

Dr. Cressman was accompanied at the ceremonies by Lawrence Mahar, director of the National Weather Service's Southern region and Ben Barker, official in charge at the Tulsa weather service office whose staff provided a continuous flow of advisories, watches and warnings issued 7-12 hours in advance of the tornadoes.

The Public Service Award for the City of Drumright made special note of a comprehensive siren warning system and a weather watch tower used in their preparedness plans. The watch tower was manned early on June 8 and a sighting resulted in quick activation of the clusters of sirens and subsequent protective actions by an alerted citizenry.

A nursing home in Drumright was destroyed. The 102 patients were moved to interior hallways. Seven of the 13 deaths in Drumright were from the nursing home.

The city of Tulsa also maintains an excellent siren system which was activated several times beginning at 7:03 p.m. The Tulsa tornadoes were in the city between about 7:13 and 7:38 p.m.

Also cited by the National Weather Service and the city of Tulsa were the news media that broadcast a continuous flow of information and tornado safety rules from early morning to very late at night. One radio station, KRMG, for a time was the only broadcasting outlet with power. Telephone lines between the Tulsa WSO and KRMG permitted "live" broadcasts of Weather Service warnings and advisories.

Even a newspaper, the Tulsa Tribune, came in for recognition at the awards ceremony. In the edition that hit the news stands at about 2 p.m., front page bulletins highlighted weather service forecasts of area flooding and the possibility of tornadoes.

An award was also presented to the Tulsa Repeaters, a group of amateur radio operators, who serve as the network spotters for eastern Oklahoma. Tornado spotters are the "eyes" of the weather service.

Alerted in the early morning to the potential of tornado development, 46 of the 100- man volunteer group were dispatched to strategic visual outposts as well as at the Tulsa weather service office and at police and highway patrol headquarters.

When weather service meteorologists detected signs of a tornado on radar, the spotters were asked to confirm the sightings. It was that confirmation that triggered the sirens in Tulsa.

Mayor Cleo Hutchinson of Drumright was on a high hill overlooking the city. They were in radio communication with one another and with police headquarters. Their sighting of the tornado a few miles southwest of the city gave Drumright five to 10 critical minutes to "take cover"

Kiwanis told of trip to Orient

Bea and Maurice Stauffer Tuesday night told Kiwanians about a recent trip to the Orient. The Stauffers presented the program for the Kiwanis Club meeting at the Ramada Inn.

The Stauffers, as members of a social club in Memphis, traveled on a charter plane to Alaska and then on to Japan. Pictures of points of interest along the trip were included in the program.

Mrs. John Nunnelee and Mrs. Lenzie Beck were guests.

THE MIGHTIEST SWAT OF ALL.

Down through the years, baseball has had its heavy hitters . . . the sluggers who could be counted on to bring home the runs. Favorites of coaches and fans alike, these are the players who draw fans and win ball games.

Advertising has its heavy hitters too. And the mightiest swat of all is found in the smallest ads . . . the Classified ads in your newspaper. They do more things for more people at lower cost than any other form of advertising.

Call on Classified when you have a communications need . . . whether it's buying, selling, hiring, renting or just telling. It's a sure hit!

Letters to the Editor

Aug. 15, 1974

The Editor,

Sikeston, Mo. has some very nice people. I don't know what we would have done if it hadn't been for "Buddy" Pearson and his wife Norma of 941 Cambridge, Sikeston, Mo.

We had attended the National High School Rodeo in Tomah, Wisconsin and started home early Monday morning. There were seven of us in two vehicles, pulling horse trailers loaded with four horses the kids had used in competition.

Before we reached St. Louis, we started trying to find a place to stay and a place for the horses. It was impossible. Everything was full. It was almost 5 A.M. when we reached Sikeston. We were tired and the horses had to be unloaded. Just outside Sikeston, we had a blowout on one of the trailers. Mr. Pearson stopped to offer his assistance. He told us to follow him into town, parked his truck, rode with us and directed us to his home where he helped us unload the horses and kept them for the night in his pasture. He woke his wife and she offered to hay them the next morning. He then called and got us rooms and rode with us to the motel and found us a place to park the horse trailers out of the way before we took him to his truck and he went on to Memphis.

My husband used to furnish the stock for the Sikeston rodeo before he sold his rodeo string and he always enjoyed going there.

We will be eternally grateful to the Pearsons.

The Thomas' — Nachitoches, La.

The Kinney's — Sulphur, La.

HE TOOK THE WATER WITH HIM

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Franklin County officials failed to pay a water bill, the City of Columbus shut off water to the county Auto Title Building.

After employes complained, it was found that the water bill, for $36.84, was among unfinished business on the desk of a worker who had gone on vacation. A flurry of phone calls got the water service restored.

THE DREAM AND THE DEAL

For the eight turbulent years between 1935 and 1943, the New Deal kept thousands of writers from starvation in one of the most massive cultural aid programs the U.S. government has ever devised -- the Federal Writers' Project. THE DREAM AND THE DEAL is the tempestuous chronicle of this chapter in American sociopolitical history. As Alfred Kazin wrote in a eulogy to the Project: "Out of the need to find something to say about every community and the country around it... there emerged an America unexampled in density and regional diversity." The Project became a symbol of the "rewakened American sense of its own history."

Author Jerre Mangione, former National Coordinating Editor of the Federal Writers' Project, tells the story of the writers who were involved in the Project (such as Saul Bellow, Nelson Algren, Conrad Aiken, Ralph Ellison), and takes a perceptive look at the individual dramas of the various state projects.

"THE DREAM AND THE DEAL...will be useful for a long time. It is the best record we are likely to have of a rowdy, idealistic, sometimes farcical experiment that failed, yet succeeded too, mostly in unexpected ways, and that refuses to be forgotten...It is an easy book to read, and the facts it presents are important to everyone even faintly interested in the relation between government and the arts. We should be grateful to Mangione for putting together the whole of an almost forgotten story."

--Malcolm Cowley

Currently, Jerre Mangione is Professor of English Literature and director of the writing program at the University of Pennsylvania.

Squash, a native to the Western Hemisphere, was first consumed by the Indians. The Narragansett Indians referred to the vegetable as "askutasquash" meaning "green-raw unripe", probably because they ate it raw.

COOKING-UP

By WANDA ATCHLEY

Choose your dessert to compliment the meal that precedes it. Serve a light taste-tempter if your main course is substantial. Go to a rich concoction when your menu is not too heavy. Select just the right flavor, texture and color, and provide a perfect ending to that special meal.

The only problem is that eating too many sweet desserts puts on unwanted pounds. One solution is to plan desserts that do contribute to the day's need for milk, fruits and eggs. Another solution is to make sure that sweets are eaten only after the day's nutrient needs are met, and that they do not make you exceed your required calories for the day.

By David and Eunice Bigelow

Everyone knows the answer to that eternal question, "Why did you climb the mountain?"

"Because it is there."

But tea plants, those famous mountain climbers, have a more specific answer. "Because the higher the elevation, the finer the tea."

In the shadow of Mt. Everest, when the mist lifts, you can see the tea gardens of Darjeeling, India. These cultivated growing areas are in the rarefied air of 3,000 to 7,000 feet. Hilly tea plants grow at a slower pace, adding flavor day by day. However, the yield of new leaves is fewer, making each wee leaf rarer and more expensive.

Tea from the rolling ranges of Ceylon is softer and more fragrant, such as Constant Comment, which is further flavored with orange and spices.

The next time you brew a cup of tea, sit back and muse about all the mountains you too have conquered.

Peachy plum compote tasty and colorful

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the loveliest fresh fruit desserts you can make is to combine fresh red poached plums with fresh sliced peaches. Part of the charm of this compote is its gorgeously colored crimson-pink syrup.

FRESH PLUM AND PEACH COMPOTE

12 (about 1½ pounds) fresh red plums
1 cup sugar
¼ cup water
6 large fresh peaches

Wash plums and remove any stems.

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat stir together the sugar and water until sugar dissolves; let bubble gently and briefly until mixture is syrupy. Add plums; simmer uncovered until plum skins begin to burst and syrup turns red. With a slotted spoon remove the plums from the syrup.

Pit 6 of the plums; puree in an electric blender; stir into the syrup in which the plums were cooked; turn into a refrigerator container, cover and chill.

At serving time, peel and slice the peaches and turn into a serving bowl — preferably glass; add the whole chilled plums, then the plum syrup. Serve as is or, if you like, with whipped cream (slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla) or commercial sour cream.

Makes 6 servings.

Fruit compote colorful

Coffee Corner by Cherie

— everything I save some extra money to do something mad and impetuous with, an appliance breaks down??

— every time I buy a new dress and take extra pains for a special occasion I particularly am looking forward to, my face breaks out??

— every time I go to great lengths to fix everyone's favorite dish that night for dinner, they all end up eating away???

— every time I get sick, so does the rest of the family???

— every time I think I've thought a new and wonderful thought, I discover someone had that same thought centuries ago, only they expressed it better???

— every time I turn on television (which is very seldom) to watch a special program I've been looking forward to for weeks, we get company???

— every time I brag to someone on the fellas or the dogs about what they've learned, they make a complete liar out of me???

— every time I want something that costs more than I feel I can afford and I finally scrounge up the courage and the pennies to purchase it with it's been sold right before I walk in the shop???

— every time I plan a party, so has someone else for the same evening???

— every time I get so durn mad at Charles and the fellas, I forgive them???

Green tomato relish can be made at home

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY - My family enjoys the Green Tomato Relish I buy in 12-ounce jars which is made — according to the label — with green tomatoes, sugar, corn syrup, salt, vinegar, red and green peppers, onions, mustard seed and carrageen. I'd like to duplicate it. Can you guide me? By the way, what's carrageen? — PUTTER UPPER.

DEAR PUTTER UPPER: Thanks for the good idea. We bought ourselves a jar of the relish you describe and had this fine copy-cat version developed. Carrageen is also called Irish moss, which gives you a clue to its source. It is sometimes used in commercially prepared foods as a suspending agent. It isn't necessary to add it to a home-made relish. — C. B.

GREEN TOMATO RELISH
8 cups chopped green tomato
1½ cups chopped onion
½ cup chopped sweet red pepper
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1½ cups cider vinegar
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon white mustard seed
½ teaspoon white pepper

In a large saucepot stir together the tomato, onion, red and green pepper, sugar, corn syrup, vinegar, salt, mustard seed and white pepper. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and boil gently until vegetables are tender-crisp — about 45 minutes. Leaving ¼-inch head space, ladle into clean hot ½-pint wide-mouth jars with 2-piece metal caps; seal according to manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath for 10 minutes; cool on wire racks or folded cloth; label and store in a cool dry place. Or seal and store in the refrigerator; in this case processing is not necessary. Makes three ½-pint jars.

Salute to spicy foods of Naples

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

I spent two months in Italy some years ago, but I can't boast even a nodding acquaintance with the roast suckling pig stuffed with herbs that is said to entice the people of Rome. Nor can I catalogue the delights of the broiled deviled chicken made famous by the cooks of Florence.

But I did spend some time in Naples and sampled a cross section of the culinary delights of southern Italy.

Naples is the cradle of the pizza, I'm told, but today Neapolitan kitchens roll out these ubiquitous discs mainly for homesick American tourists.

The southern port city is also noted for its pasta and a number of other specialties, including the marinara, or mariner's sauce, that is used on so many Italian dishes the breadth and length of the Italian boot. It is also used as a base for many other sauces. The union of spaghetti and clams so popular in Rome is made by cooking clams in a thick marinara sauce. I didn't have to visit the Eternal City to find that out.

Unlike the American version which is usually made with canned tomatoes and drowned in tomato paste, Neapolitan marinara is made from fresh tomatoes, onions, green pepper and sometimes chopped anchovies. I like to add dry red wine to deepen the flavor and put in a dash of cayenne pepper for a little bite.

Naples goes in heavily for stews of mixed fish seasoned with onion, garlic, parsley, tomatoes, bay leaves and dry white wine. The gimmick is to pour it over slices of fried bread arranged in a soup plate.

The Neapolitans like to consume crusty Italian bread with sharp cheese and wash it down with red wine. When we went boating in the Bay of Naples we used to take along a loaf, a block of provolone and a bottle of robust red.

4 tablespoons olive oil
6 center-cut loin pork chops 1½ inches thick
1 teaspoon minced garlic
½ teaspoon dried oregano, ground
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ bay leaf
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper ground
½ cup dry red wine
1 ounce cognac
1 cup tomato puree
1 tablespoon tomato paste
½ pound sweet green peppers cut in strips
2 flat anchovy filets, drained and rinsed in cold water and minced

In a large, heavy skillet heat 2 tablespoons olive oil, brown chops 3 minutes on each side and set aside on plate. Pour off most of fat and throw in garlic, oregano, thyme, cayenne, bay leaf, salt and pepper and stir over medium heat for 30 seconds. Add wine and brandy and boil to reduce mixture to about ¼ cup. Stir in tomato puree and paste and return chops to skillet. Baste with sauce and cover, simmering 40 minutes, basting once or twice.

Heat remaining oil in another skillet and throw in green peppers, frying 5 minutes. Transfer to pan with pork chops. Add anchovy bits and simmer covered 10 minutes, and uncovered another 10 minutes, till pork is tender and sauce is thick. Serve with a dry red wine. Serves 3.

TOFFEE BARS
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups unsifted flour
1 egg yolk
Two 6-ounce bars milk chocolate with almonds

Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in egg yolk. Gradually work in flour, using your hands if necessary. Pat over bottom of a 15 by 10 by 1 inch jellyroll pan; smooth with a small metal spatula. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until lightly golden — 15 minutes. Meanwhile break up chocolate at demarcations; as soon as cookie dough is baked place chocolate pieces over top and return to oven until chocolate softens — 2 minutes. Remove from oven and with the small spatula spread chocolate so it covers top. Cool. Refrigerate until chocolate is firm — about 5 minutes. Cut into bars. Store in a tightly covered tin box in a cool place with wax paper or plastic wrap between the layers of cookies.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1951, the United States ordered construction of the first atomic submarine.

On this date:

In 1858, slavery was an issue as the famous debates began between political contenders Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas.

In 1918, the World War I battle of the Somme river began in France.

In 1940, Communist revolutionary Leon Trotsky died of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Mexico City.

In 1945, the United States halted World War II lend-lease operations.

In 1959, Hawaii officially became the 50th state of the union. Congress had passed a bill admitting Hawaii on March 18.

Ten years ago, eight people were killed and eight injured when a heavy truck rammed into a passenger train near Leonard, Ont.

Five years ago, the United States ordered the expulsion of a Cuban diplomat to the U.N. on grounds that he sought to get a refugee to undertake a mission relating to the security of the office of president.

Thought for today: The White House is the finest prison in the world—Harry S. Truman.
